REBELLIOUS TRIBESMEN NEW THREAT TO KHANH

BAN ME THUOT, South-Viet Nam, (AP) — Maj.-Gen. Nguyen Khanh, premier of South Viet Nam, flew to this mountain town today in a personal attempt to quell a simmering rebellion by American-trained mountain tribesmen.

About 4,000 government troops and 12 artillery pieces were set up at the perimeter of the town to head off a possible onslaught by the heavily armed tribesmen as the premier arrived from Saigon.

Hundreds Flee Homes In Santa Barbara Fire

(Times News Services)

SANTA BARBARA, Calif.—A raging brush fire roared on out of control today in suburbs of this seaside resort city.

An official survey showed that 66 homes have been destroyed and more than 23,000 acres blackened.

In addition, U.S. district ranger Warren Barnes said he feared for 40 other homes which may have been engulfed in the flames.

Fire officials gave their official damage count following a trip over the burned area by helicopter.

Frightened people scurried from their homes as fingers of flame moved into the outskirts of this besieged town.

Observers said firemen are making a stand at each house threatened, but that the 40-mile-an-hour winds kept pushing the fire onward. Cement delivery trucks have been pressed into service as water carriers.

Officials said as many as 5,000 persons have been forced to evacuate, some of them having to leave their homes twice as the flames died down, then arose again.

The wall of fire, about nine miles wide, was formed when two fires merged this morning.

The southwest edge of the fire was approaching the Goleta Valley foothill area posing a threat to several housing tracts located there.

Fire equipment from as far south as Los Angeles was being thrown into the battle against the fire.

USE COMPUTER

The forest service also was flying in a new device known as a fire scanner computer. All available information will be fed into this computer which in turn will issue electronic opinions of how best to fight the fire.

The firefighters also were attempting to establish a fire line between the latest fire that broke out in the San Marcos area and numerous homes in the San Marcos Trout Club area.

Residents of the San Marcos Pass area were ordered to evacuate by Santa Barbara County sheriff's deputies.

Shortly before dawn the fire, fighters received a slight break as winds died down and a cooling trend began. However, it was expected the winds would increase again this afternoon with temperatures predicted near 100 degrees.

Fire officials said there was little indication that the fires could be contained before other buildings are destroyed.

A lack of water pressure, also was hampering firefighting efforts. Residents of Montecito were urged not to use water for anything but essential purposes.

More than 1,300 firefighters—many from cities up to 300 miles away—battled the blaze.

5,000 Tons Block Road

SMITHERS (CP)—Highways department officials today surveyed damage caused by a slide Wednesday on Highway 16, 30 miles west of Smithers.

The slide tore out a 70-foot section of the highway in the Bulkley canyon, halting motor traffic between Prince Rupert and Prince George.

DRAMATIC RESCUE TOOK 2½ HOURS

Boy Wins Battle In Surf

NARRAGANSETT, R.I. (AP) — A 12-year-old boy, swept off rocks by heavy surf Wednesday night, swam and floated for 2½ hours while rescuers labored to reach him.

He finally was rescued by a U.S. Coast Guard boat.

More than 2,000 persons lined Ocean Road at Narragansett pier to watch the rescue.

The boy, Carl Dykstra of Wakefield, R.I., had gone onto the rocks with his brother-in-law, Andrew Toth, 27, and his sister, Mrs. Toth, 21.

He was washed off by a wave from the fringe of hurricane Gladys about 7 p.m. and carried out by the surf. Several hundred feet off shore he was able to start swimming.

Rescue units from three towns sped to the scene, rigged floodlights and attempted to shoot a line to the boy. But the line kept missing and the surf

Japan Area Raked By Typhoon Wilda

TOKYO (UPI)—Typhoon Wilda howled across Japan's southernmost island of Kyushu today. It caused widespread destruction and injury as it headed on an uncertain course toward the main island of Honshu.

If it remains on its present course, Wilda, biggest of all Pacific storms, will follow the west coast shoreline along the Sea of Japan Friday.

However, the meteorological agency said that the slightest atmospheric disturbance at any time could tilt the typhoon further east and send it on a path through Tokyo, scene of the forthcoming 1964 Olympic Games.

SWEDES ACCUSED ON CYPRUS

Arms Smuggled By UN Troops

NICOSIA (AP)—Cypriot police said today they had apprehended five men of the Swedish contingent of the United Nations peace force in Cyprus for smuggling a large quantity of arms and ammunition on behalf of the Turkish-Cypriots.

Huge Iron Ore Find In Alaska

TULSA, Okla. (AP)—Pan American Petroleum Company said Wednesday it has discovered a deposit of iron ore in Alaska which could rank "as one of the top seven or eight iron ore discoveries ever made."

Pan Am, a subsidiary of Standard Oil Company of Indiana, said the ore is only about 15 per cent iron, but that the deposits are estimated to contain nearly one billion tons of recoverable iron.

The deposits, on the Alaskan peninsula 200 miles southwest of Anchorage, represent a reserve larger than any in the United States except those in Minnesota, said Randolph Yost, Pan Am president.

He said that despite its low iron content, the ore in 10 to 15 years "may very well represent an economically attractive source of supply."

He said the deposits are close to Pan Am's large natural gas reserves in Alaska's Cook Inlet, so that gas might be used to reduce the ore to a concentrate containing about 95 per cent iron.

Ocean transportation also is convenient.

Yost said two large American steel companies and two Japanese firms have expressed interest in the ore fields.

China Scouting West For Chemical Plants

LONDON (AP)—China is reported buying or negotiating for $200,000,000 worth of chemical plants from Britain, Western Europe and Japan.

Informants said the Chinese already have ordered seven plants from West European countries and two from Japan, and about a dozen are under negotiation with British firms.

British businessmen are saying privately that the $200,000,000 involved seems to be within China's capacity to pay because of an exceptionally good harvest this year.

The British government has been cool, however, to overtures from Peking to underwrite long-term credits to help build China's chemical industry.

An authoritative source said the British government, which insures exporters against loss, does not yet see the Chinese as a good long-term credit risk.

The board of trade earlier this year allowed up to $280,000,000 of long-term credit to the Soviet Union for purchase of chemical plants. An equivalent sum is to be allowed smaller Communist countries of Eastern Europe for the same purpose.

FOLLOW RUSSIAN LEAD

The British government and British businessmen have the impression that the Chinese are following the lead of the Russians in putting increasing emphasis on production of plastics, fertilizers and artificial fibres.

The Chinese seem mainly interested in production units for petrochemicals, synthetic fibres and fertilizers.

ATTORNEY-GENERAL BONNER backs Clyne

'VERY ERUDITE'

New Laws Under Study, Says Bonner

Attorney-General Robert Bonner described the report of the Clyne royal commission on expropriation Wednesday as "very erudite."

Mr. Bonner said the report by Commissioner J. V. Clyne hasn't yet been considered in cabinet but that he has already instructed his legislative counsel to study it "with a view to legislation at the coming session."

"The report seems to move a long distance toward correcting some of the problems we have experienced in recent years," the attorney-general said.

It would, he said, prevent a repetition of the sort of case that led to the commission's appointment in 1961.

The study was ordered after the estate of Edwin Alston Parkford was awarded $442,676 in 1960 for part of a property bought for $143,043 six years previously. The land was needed for the Deas Island thruway south of Vancouver.

Mr. Bonner said that the subject is extremely complex.

"A lot of people are going to have to burn a lot of midnight oil," he said.

Mr. Bonner doubted that the province's courts system would be overtaxed by declaring the courts sole tribunal for compensation disputes in expropriations, as recommended by the report.

"The courts do have extensive responsibilities in this field now," he said, "and with more attention to negotiations for voluntary purchases, as Mr. Clyne recommends, it might well be fewer disputes will arise."

Cabinet Hears Mayors Scheme

Times Staff Reporter

BURNABY—Federal financial help may come to the rescue of Greater Victoria and Vancouver transit systems, Mayor R. B. Wilson disclosed today.

In an interview with the Times, he revealed that the recent Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities executive meeting with the federal cabinet, from which he has just returned, proposed the plan.

Mayor Wilson said the CFMM executive asked the national government to undertake a program of massive financial assistance to faltering urban transit systems similar to one recently approved by the U.S. government.

It would be based on the premise that subsidies for urban transit would provide a better solution than continually increasing the number of roads and expressways in cities and in the long run would be considerably cheaper. It would involve a cost-sharing arrangement among the three levels of government.

If such a program is undertaken, it likely would see its start here because the B.C. Hydro transit systems appear to be struggling with the most acute problem.

Specifically, the CFMM executive asked the federal cabinet for its participation in a conference with the provincial and municipal governments to discuss the idea and work out a program.

"The proposal was very well received by the cabinet. I certainly was encouraged by their response," said Mayor Wilson. He said the next step was for a committee to raise the question with provincial government to see if they would agree to a conference.

Although Mayor Wilson did not confirm it, there have been rumors circulating among observers at the Public Utilities Commission hearings on B.C. Hydro's requested 25-cent bus fare that a deal to share the transit deficit might be worked out.

The CFMM approach could become the springboard for a quick start on subsidized transit.

Semi-Metro With Some Strings

Times Staff Reporter

BURNABY—Union of B.C. Municipalities delegates today took a major stride towards regional co-ordination of civic services.

They gave almost unanimous support to a modified resolution accepting the principle of "semi-metro"—with a big "but" added.

The string they attached was "that such endorsement contemplates future liaison between the department of municipal affairs and the UBCM executive in the drafting of appropriate legislation."

Victoria's Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow, who Wednesday warned the convention to go slowly in this field, this morning appeared satisfied with the modification ensuring liaison. (See earlier story Page 3.)

The resolution combined an earlier UBCM executive recommendation with a prior resolution from Nelson urging creation of some type of co-ordination of regional municipal services.

Adoption in principle of what Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell calls the "joint services board" concept undoubtedly will go down as the most important action of this year's convention.

Mr. Campbell told The Times he was very pleased with the resolution.

Lotteries Endorsed In One-Sided Vote

BURNABY (CP)—The Union of British Columbia Municipalities, for the second straight year, called for lotteries today to help pay for such things as education, public health and hospital construction.

The UBCM annual convention passed with little debate a North Vancouver resolution asking the provincial government to seek the necessary Criminal Code amendments to permit lotteries.

The FBI meanwhile was reported to be investigating two new bomb explosions.

A bomb was hurled at the home of a former Negro city police officer who was en route to Washington to talk to the U.S. Civil Rights Commission and the justice department.

McCOMB, Miss. (AP)—An undisclosed number of Negroes have been arrested in this racially-tense area on warrants charging them with "criminal syndicalism"—a new state law prohibiting unlawful acts to bring about a political or social change.

JOHNSON BACKS SEARCH FOR NEW PANAMA CANAL

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Lyndon Johnson today endorsed legislation to pave the way for possible construction of a sea-level canal to connect the Atlantic and Pacific oceans.

In a statement, Johnson urged Congress to act promptly on a supplemental request of $5 million to initiate a study to determine a site for a new canal.

Johnson said the Panama Canal was "a great engineering achievement" which has served world commerce for 50 years. But he said "if we are to meet the challenges of the future, we must begin now to think in terms of the long-range needs" which the present canal cannot meet.

The president recognized that construction of a sea-level canal "presents formidable obstacles even after a suitable site is selected."

He pointed out that there are "enormous technical problems and complex and interrelated political, military and economic considerations that must be weighed."

He said the Panama Canal had been a major source of income for Panama's economic and social development and "key link in our security arrangements."

But he said a new waterway is necessary to meet the demands of the future.

A pending bill calls for a five-member commission, appointed by the president, to undertake the canal study. It would make annual reports on the progress of its work.

ROUND-THE-WORLD tour will be undertaken by Most Rev. Howard H. Clark, primate of the Anglican Church in Canada. He wants to see some of the projects being supported by the Canadian church and to take part in ceremonies at Calcutta marking the 150th anniversary of the founding of the Anglican episcopate in India. While in London, Archbishop Clark will hold talks with the Archbishop of Canterbury.

STRONGER MANDATE UNLIKELY

UNITED NATIONS (CP) — Chances of a stronger mandate for the United Nations Cyprus force appeared dimmer as the Security Council today scheduled its seventh meeting on the issue.

Western sources said it appeared the council would fall back on the same sort of authority it has given the force in its two previous three-month terms.

Several countries providing men for the force, Canada among them, have been pressing for a clearer mandate.

Oswald Feared Coup By Marines In U.S.

DALLAS (AP)—Lee Harvey Oswald, the accused assassin of President Kennedy, thought the U.S. Marines might one day take over the United States in a Latin American-type coup, the Dallas Morning News reports.

A copyrighted story by Hugh Aynesworth, apparently based on notebook writings and letters of Oswald, said Oswald mentioned the possible overthrow in a speech.

Oswald wrote: "Americans are apt to scoff at the idea that a military coup in the United States, as so often happens in Latin American countries, could ever replace our government. But that is an idea that has grounds for consideration."

The speech was written for delivery to a New Orleans audience less than four months before President Kennedy was shot in Dallas Nov. 22, 1963. It was not known whether the speech actually was given.

Oswald, a former marine, described the Marine Corps as a "right-wing, infiltrated organization of dire potential consequences to the freedoms of the United States."

Oswald, writing mostly on notebook paper, expounded at great length on his philosophy of world governments.

Among his writings was a plan which would be used in event of a military overthrow. He termed it an "activist" or "futurist" to "safeguard an independent course of action after the debacle."

Oswald detailed a doctrine which he considered a "truly democratic system." He said it would combine the best qualities of both capitalism and communism, but would be opposed to both world systems as they now operate.

By JOHN MIKA
Times Staff Reporter

BURNABY—Almost 500 civic leaders here listened in silence to Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell's call Wednesday that they "break step with the cherished Mursion Plan" and change gait to his semi-metro plans.

It was his first speech as minister to the Union of B.C. Municipalities and it only won a short and perfunctory round of applause at the end—followed by a public plea from UBCM president A. V. Fraser that delegates consider him "a real friend" and not an enemy.

Despite that, Mr. Campbell was seared by critics during the question period who objected to his controversial winter works grant cutoff except for men on relief.

Mr. Campbell, in his speech, said royal commissions in Manitoba and New Brunswick dealt with the Mursion Plan concept and their conclusions proved to him it would doom local government.

The Mursion Plan was evolved in 1958 by former UBCM president Major-General C. A. P. Mursion and it contended that the provincial government should pay for all services to people—such as schools and hospitals—while municipal governments paid for services to property only—such as sewers and roads.

BEHIND SCENES

It was bitterly criticized by W. D. Black, Mr. Campbell's predecessor, and led to a behind-the-scenes struggle between the provincial government and UBCM.

(Significantly the legislature's committee on municipal affairs was never again convened by Mr. Black and Wednesday the UBCM passed a resolution asking that it be reinstated by Mr. Campbell.)

Mr. Campbell told the convention that the New Brunswick royal commission endorsed the "services to people

Women Pickpockets

TOKYO (Reuters)—Police reported Wednesday that 31 women were among 213 pickpockets arrested in Tokyo since June 1 in a drive to rid the world's largest city of pickpockets before the Olympic games next month.

versus property" proposition and recommended it be implemented by the creation of centralized, non-elected commissions to administer it.

"The idea of course is taxation without representation and if this is the road that the people versus property concept can take us down, then I would hope that it loses whatever headwind and headhold it still maintains in B.C."

He said complete elimination of much of the local government system was recommended by the New Brunswick report "because obviously, having lost its role in the services to people it had lost its role period."

He said the Manitoba commission foresaw these pitfalls so it recommended a mixture of responsibilities be maintained, as in B.C., with costs shared by the provincial and municipal governments.

BEST IN CANADA

Mr. Campbell claimed that B.C. gives its municipalities the best cost-sharing deal in Canada. But he pointedly added that no formula was static or perfect and the provincial government "does not quarrel" with changing the formula to keep pace with changing needs.

"Further, the government of this province believes that one of the fundamental roles to be played by local government in the years ahead is in the area of exercising direction over land use," he said.

"The fact that I, as minister, now exercise direction over 92½ per cent of the area of this great province, insofar as zoning is concerned, should not be taken as an indication of things to come."

(This apparently was an oblique acknowledgment of previous reports in the Times that one of Mr. Campbell's goals is to encourage more unorganized territories to incorporate as municipalities.)

"Perhaps the time has come, then, to re-examine many of the implications involved in the so-called concept of services to people versus services to property," he said.

"I have suggested only two.

STERILE

"Firstly, no level of government could be more sterile than one which limited its horizons to the physical servicing of property."

"Secondly, no level of government with such limits could more surely ensure its ultimate oblivion."

Mr. Campbell also outlined the principles of his semi-metro scheme—involving a joint services board for co-ordinating regional services—in several municipalities and surrounding unorganized areas.

The first such scheme is now under discussion in Greater Victoria and he plans to propose it to Greater Vancouver municipalities at a meeting next month.

AFRICANS THREATEN BRITAIN

NAIROBI (AP)—African member states might expel Britain from the Commonwealth if she continued to supply South Africa with arms, said Kenya Health Minister Dr. Njoroge Mungai Tuesday night. He told Parliament that though South Africa had been expelled from the Commonwealth, other states persisted in treating her "as if she were a civilized country."

Edgelow Stalls Campbell Plan At UBCM Meet

Times Staff Reporter

BURNABY—Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow cut a large swath at the Union of B.C. Municipalities convention Wednesday.

He rose three times to speak and each time made a direct hit on his targets: Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell; the UBCM executive; and opponents to a broader tax basis for providing fire protection to hospitals in rural municipalities.

Ald. Edgelow stopped cold a UBCM executive resolution to endorse Mr. Campbell's semi-metro proposal when it appeared it was about to be passed early in the first convention session.

Delegates gave his motion to table the idea for further study almost unanimous support when he said even if the proposal came from the executive it should be dealt with very cautiously.

"If we pass this today it could create the most important municipal legislation since the province of British Columbia was formed and we should make sure we know what we are doing," he said.

"I'm not saying it's not a good idea but we should take the time to study it so that we can be convinced that it is good for the whole province," he said.

Ald. Edgelow said he had grave doubts about the value of the joint services board to Victoria unless it was shown that it would not result in city ratepayers, who already have paid for their own sewer system, paying again to provide sewers for other municipalities.

A few minutes earlier, he was the only one of several critics of Mr. Campbell to draw blood.

Three delegates, during a question period following the ministers' first speech of the UBCM, lashed his decision to restrict winter works grants to welfare recipients.

Mr. Campbell brushed them all off except the point raised by Ald. Edgelow which he admitted had some merit.

Ald. Edgelow had raked Mr. Campbell on the grounds that his decision broke faith with all municipalities that had drawn up and budgeted projects on the

CONSTERNATION TO INVESTORS

Gordon Plan Disturbs U.K.

LONDON (CP)—Finance Minister Gordon's plan to curb foreign investment in Canadian banks and other financial institutions is causing concern in London business circles.

"Investors in Canadian banks can hardly be expected to relish the latest moves," says The Daily Telegraph's financial correspondent.

"But financial opinion is that the moves are aimed mainly against acquisitive United States companies and, in practice, should not have a great deal of impact on the average investor." The financial correspondent of The Times says that, superficially, the moves "would seem to call for a massive off-loading of surplus shares held by non-residents."

This prospect "must cause consternation to U.S. institutions and investors and also to British insurance companies, which are important shareholders in Canadian insurance."

The Times says one redeeming feature of Gordon's plan is the clause allowing shares to be registered in the name of a Canadian even when a non-resident is the beneficial owner.

"This would provide an incentive to a gradual sale of assets and bring about the desired return of institutions to Canadian control less painfully."

A Fence and a Challenge

MOST CANADIANS WILL applaud the aim of Finance Minister Gordon in his latest move to prevent further control over Canadian financial affairs from passing into foreign hands. How effective the move to limit foreign ownership of banks, trust and loan firms and insurance companies to 25 per cent will be—or in the long run how desirable it will prove—must yet be shown.

Despite Mr. Gordon's denial that this move is a last-ditch defence against outside control of vital Canadian interests, that is precisely what it is. Defeated in his initial attempt to "Canadianize" investment in this country through his ill-fated 30-per-cent "take-over tax," the finance minister has lowered his sights to the narrower—but still important—field of financial institutions which remain preponderantly in Canadian hands.

It must be recognized, however, that Mr. Gordon's bill by no means precludes the tightening of foreign control over the Canadian economy. It merely locks in those institutions which are most amenable to federal control and direction. The hard core of the foreign ownership problem, the control over a vast segment of industrial activity and primary resources, is left untouched.

One unfortunate result of Mr. Gordon's plan could well be the very stagnation of competition within the Canadian financial world that was mentioned in the recent report of the Porter Royal Commission on banking and finance. With control of these institutions guaranteed to remain in the same hands in which they are now held, some of the incentive to compete more strongly and to move along more modern and progressive lines is removed.

To a degree it perpetuates the "closed society" atmosphere in which much of Canadian financing is carried on and could, in the long run, contribute to even greater foreign control of Canadian assets in other fields. It is, after all, difficult to refute the argument that one reason for the tide of foreign ownership has been the ultra-conservatism of this nation's financial community and its slowness to provide the backing for development of Canadian resources by Canadians.

The basic emotion which most Canadians will feel about the Gordon plan is patriotism — a feeling that although foreigners may have grasped control of the largest part of our industry and natural resources, they are not going to get our banks and insurance companies. Or at least, not any more than they already have.

Unfortunately, this is not a very useful emotion in a world which is strongly competitive and where the utmost ingenuity is needed for economic survival. In one sense Mr. Gordon has handed Canadian financial institutions—and all Canadians—a challenge. This area is restricted to Canadians only, he has said in effect. Now, what are we going to make out of it?

Problems of Joint Defence

SPECULATION THAT THE North American Air Defence Command has been overtaken by technical developments and is due to be thoroughly revised is raising the question of what contribution Canada can be expected to make toward continental defence in the future.

A large part of the Canadian contribution in the original NORAD setup was simply land — land on which to build the Mid-Canada and Distant Early Warning radar stations which scanned the skies to the north in case of attack by Russian bombers over the North Pole. Personnel and equipment were also given by Canada to NORAD to a degree and a Canadian was named deputy commander of the organization.

Now, apparently, with President Johnson's announcement last week of development of an "over the horizon" radar device, the radar installations on Canadian territory are soon to be downgraded in importance. Canada may be asked to make some other type of contribution to NORAD if we wish to continue in it.

Since the emphasis now is on installations located solely on American soil, the chief way in which Canada can participate would be through financial support of NORAD by helping to pay for the development of new weapons and continuing to supply personnel.

This prospect may raise political as well as financial difficulties for any Canadian government. We are now involved in efforts to cut defence costs through unification of the services and other means. A large cash outlay for research or production of weapons in which the United States has already invested many millions of dollars might find heavy going in the Commons, particularly in the face of continuing annual deficits.

At the same time, Canada cannot afford to shelter in the lee of the United States entirely at the latter country's expense. Technology has brought a new accent to continental defence and we shall have to develop a new viewpoint to meet it.

A Career of Service to Others

THE RESIGNATION OF MISS Mary King, provincial superintendent of child welfare, will be a distinct loss to British Columbia and to child welfare work in Canada. Miss King will leave her important post at the year's end, to become a consultant to the International Social Service of Britain.

In thirty years of service to social welfare in this province Miss King has made an honored name for herself in her chosen field, and contributed substantially to the splendid reputation which the British Columbia department has held in this work. Her resignation will be particularly regretted in Victoria, for Miss King, originally trained as a nurse at Royal Jubilee Hospital, was later the first social worker for the local Children's Aid Society. She saw similar service in Vancouver between tours of duty with the provincial welfare department, where she served at almost every level. For the past four years Miss King has been in the government's top child welfare post, having succeeded Miss Ruby McKay.

Her task has not been an easy one. Her predecessor left as a protest against the government's refusal to face up to pressing problems of budget and staff which were having serious effects on the traditional high standard of work. Those problems have not yet been fully solved, but Miss King has earned great credit for the quiet efficiency with which she has tackled the job and made the best use of the resources at hand.

It has become a cliché to speak of social welfare workers as dedicated, but with dedication Miss King combines high abilities and a warm humanity that have won her friends throughout the province—not least the many thousands of children who through her efforts or under her direction have received hope and a new chance in life.

Protests By Request

CIVIL DISOBEDIENCE IN India, made respectable through the passive resistance program of the late Mohandas Gandhi, has in recent years come under the control of professional agitators who hire out to the highest bidder.

According to a report from Bombay, agitation in India has become big business with local bosses known as "dadas" contracting to call up anywhere from 50 to 500 demonstrators for or against any cause on a few hours notice. In Calcutta alone, it has been estimated, there are more than 20,000 professional agitators ready to take to the streets in parades, sit-down strikes, public fasts or even, sometimes, a bit of violence. These professionals get perhaps 50 cents for eight solid hours of demonstrating although the rates vary from one job to another.

In view of this report it is interesting to speculate on just how genuine much of the demonstrations against the government in India really are. There's no doubt, for instance, that the present food shortages have been serious but the rioting against the government in Calcutta is brought a little more into perspective when it is learned that the pro-Peking wing of the Communist party in Calcutta alone is believed to maintain some 2,000 agitators on a regular payroll.

Image of the Arch Reactionary

LAST week Sen. Barry Goldwater went campaigning in the South. His purpose, it appears, was not so much to win this election, but to inaugurate the so-called southern strategy in order to lay the foundations for a radically new Republican Party.

This was made plain by the exuberant welcome he extended to Sen. Strom Thurmond who has now joined the Republican Party. This new Republican Party, which was born in San Francisco, is to be built upon a Goldwater-Thurmond alliance; it is to be a white man's party and not conservative at all, but radically reactionary.

The formation of the Goldwater-Thurmond alliance explains what is otherwise madly inexplicable about Senator Goldwater's campaign speeches during the past week. There was to begin with his almost total silence about the civil rights act, though opposition to it is by all odds the main reason for his strength in the south.

Thurmond Symbolism

There was no need for him to mention civil rights or to take notice of the existence of a large Negro population when he could consort publicly with Senator Thurmond. Senator Thurmond is the most extreme segregationist and the most extreme reactionary in the United States Senate.

Senator Goldwater may now go on trying to confuse the northerners by talking about desegregating the Arizona National Guard and the airport dining room in Phoenix. But for all southerners, black or white, his embrace of Strom Thurmond places him squarely with the extreme racists.

Lippmann

Since there was nothing further to be said on the race issue, Senator Goldwater devoted himself to the one thing still needed to clinch the kind of southern vote represented by Thurmond. This was to be so boldly and extravagantly reactionary on other issues that there could be no doubt that he was wholly free of the taint of any of that progressivism which is the tradition of the West.

Picketed Spots

This was, I believe, why he chose Florida, where there are so many elderly people, to attack Medicare, why he chose in Tennessee to renew his proposal to sell the TVA and why he went to West Virginia to attack the poor.

Some have wondered whether these are symptoms of a "suicide complex." I think they are the result of a decision to make over the Republican Party in the image of Barry Goldwater and Strom Thurmond.

Here again, as in his demands for a weaker government, but stronger politics, we see that the senator is enclosed, as in an envelope, in his private dream world. One of his persistent fantasies is that, since the poor are in a minority, a great political result can be had by arousing the rich against the poor. We all know of the demagogues and agitators who arouse the poor against the rich. But in Barry Goldwater we have a demagogue who dreams of arousing the rich against the poor.

For the proof of this we must look to his speech in Charleston, W. Va., on Friday, Sept. 18—omitting the wild and libelous remarks which were reported in the newspapers and using only the official text given out by the Republican National Committee. This speech was an attack on the administration's "war on poverty."

The senator said that the Kennedy-Johnson objective is that "no one is to be permitted to fall below the average." This is obviously sheer gibberish, since there cannot be an "average" if no one is below it.

What Senator Goldwater was trying to talk about is the fact that the administration regards as "poor" a non-farm family of four which has an annual income of less than $3,000. This figure is not an "average."

It is an amount of money which permits a family of four to spend about 70 cents a day per person for food, to spend $800 a year for housing, which covers rent or mortgage payments, utilities and heat. After food and housing, there is left in this budget $1,200—or $25 a week for the whole family to pay for clothing, transportation, school supplies and books, home furnishings and supplies, medical care, personal care, recreation, insurance and everything else.

Non-Sequitur

Senator Goldwater sneered at this budget as luxurious. And he went on to declare, emphasizing his words by underlining them in the text, that "a society in which no one is permitted to fall below the average (sic) is one in which no one can be permitted to rise above it."

This sentence must be described as total nonsense. In his confusion he seems to think that the $3,000 budget is the "average" and that President Lyndon Johnson is plotting to prevent anyone from earning more than $3,000. Or what, in the name of sanity, does he mean?

The more closely one examines the actual texts of the Goldwater speeches, the more apparent is the divorce between what he thinks and says and what actually exists in the real world. His feet are not on the ground. His head is in some kind of private cloud. It is truly alarming to think that the fate of this country and of the world could be in his hands.

So Shall They Reap

THE GREATEST influx of American custom harvesters in years is reported in southern Saskatchewan this year. So far, 245 threshing outfits with almost 600 combines and more than 1,000 men and 200 house trailers have crossed the border to help harvest the Saskatchewan grain crop.

This influx, coming on the heels of studies of farm obsolescence in eastern Canada, adds emphasis to the question: Is grain farming as a way of life also becoming obsolete?

Every new development in recent years has helped not only to free the farmer from working the land but to free him from the necessity of living on the land he farms. Some of these developments have been: the abandonment of hundreds of country schools in favor of consolidated schools located in the larger towns, the use of larger units of mechanical equipment to seed and harvest the grain crops, perfection of herbicides which make summer fallowing for weed control unnecessary.

The effect of these improvements has been to speed up the movement of farm families into nearby towns. Now studies for the government of Saskatchewan are indicating that even the smaller towns are unnecessary, that concentrating population in a few large towns is better than having it scattered in small villages and hamlets. Both developments can be accentuated by custom combining—the threshing of a crop by a contractor who supplies all equipment and labor for so much per bushel.

Instead of Harvest Armies

Custom harvesting might be described as a mid-century offshoot of the old harvest excursion. Fifty years ago armies of harvesters from eastern Canada and the Pacific Coast used to emigrate to the prairies in late summer to work until late fall taking off the crop, mainly by brute strength. These excursions ended with the depression and the mechanization of agriculture. Then it was discovered in the United States that big equipment could be moved steadily north as the crop ripened and "custom combining" was invented.

The custom combiners start out in the Texas wheat fields in May to harvest the ripened winter wheat. Usually one outfit will have two or three combines, a baler or two, a couple of trucks and a house trailer or two. All of it is brand new when the operation begins.

The economics of hiring the custom combiners or buying equipment is still being argued. Farmers who depend on the custom combiners are freed from tying up from $10,000 to $25,000 in harvesting equipment. But they are faced with the uncertainty of relying on the outsiders who may not turn up when they are needed. The edge in the argument seems to be on the side of the custom combiners because the practice is gaining rapidly in popularity south of the line.

On one point there is no doubt, the custom men are real professionals and probably help their customers pay for their services by being more efficient than an ordinary farmer. The grain combine is a highly intricate piece of equipment. It must be carefully adjusted and in perfect working condition or it can damage the wheat kernels, or blow them out with the straw. On most farms, cattle are turned out into the fields after harvest and grow sleek and fat on the grain they can pick up in the chaff.

Risk of Losses

In the rush to get his crop in, the average farmer frequently operates his combine at too high a speed. A machine which loses a bushel of grain an acre with the chaff at three miles an hour will lose two bushels at four miles, four bushels at five miles and seven bushels at six miles per hour.

As the custom combiners are paid on the bushelage they deliver, it is in their interest to do the most efficient job possible. In addition, it is in their interest to have a highly skilled mechanic in the outfit keeping their machines in top working order.

Naturally the machines wear out as they move steadily north through Oklahoma, Kansas, Nebraska, South Dakota and the border states. The custom combiners get more out of their equipment in a single season than a Canadian farmer will get out of his in five years. When they run out of grain to harvest, they sell their outfits and head back for Texas to await the next harvest.

The development and expansion of the custom harvesters reduces the function of the ordinary farmer to plowing and seeding. He has long since abandoned many of the things which were the essence of farming—raising chickens, shipping eggs in crates, milking cows for cream, shipping or butter making, raising turkeys for market.

Poultry is now a mass production business operated with all the skill and efficiency of an automobile assembly line. It might almost be said that chicken raising and egg production has reached such a level of efficiency that the last vestige of original flavor has been removed, along with the work and worry once associated with it.

Lose Their Shirts

Turkey production in the west, however, still resists automation. Periodically new gamblers get into the turkey business on a huge scale, and usually lose their shirts.

And if the way of life of western agriculture is losing its economic base and essential justification, what is it that the federal government's A.R.D.A. is trying to resuscitate? If a Saskatchewan wheat farmer can raise his family in the comfort of an apartment in Weyburn, Assiniboia or even Regina, while raising a bumper wheat crop on a farm 25 miles away, why not encourage him to do just that?

God and Citizenship

According to a Hamilton CP dispatch, Judge W. W. Leach has refused to recommend a Dutch immigrant and his wife for Canadian citizenship "because of their lack of belief in God."

Neither in the BNA Act nor in any other Canadian statute is it specified that a natural-born citizen—or an applicant for citizenship, has to believe in, or to profess to believe in, a God. In respect to taking an oath, or kissing the Bible, the Interpretation Act provides that any person can make an affirmation or declaration instead of an oath.

In Canada, as in most other countries jurisprudence is established by law and by precedent. Precedent that one does not have to believe in God in order to attain citizenship was established in 1949. I applied for citizenship and as an atheist I made an affirmation instead of taking an oath. After a week's delay I received my certificate of citizenship.

At least one judge in Vancouver regularly allows applicants to affirm instead of swearing and repeating the phrase "So help me God."

If Judge Leach's ruling is permitted to stand then a Catholic judge could refuse citizenship to a Baptist, and a Baptist judge could refuse citizenship to a Catholic.

Adapting to Orthodoxy

The present head of a political sect—or organization—that built itself on the foundation of scorn for the current form of financing, has undoubtedly adapted himself to the orthodox theory that "money makes money" mistaking the present flush in British Columbia as his very own personal achievement.

The deposit received in order to go ahead with the dams, etc., for the purchaser's side of the Columbia River treaty has already served a useful purpose, in part, by paying off a debt from a so-called debt-free province.

The idea of buying the Yukon, as a present for British Columbia with the bribery of a paved road, is in keeping with the pageantry of a sawdust Caesar and also the skill of a flying trapeze artist.

Perhaps Mr. W. A. C. Bennett would be better advised to come to terms over the panhandle of Alaska which obstructs British Columbia from easy access to the Pacific Ocean (not unlike the Polish corridor).

Government of the people, by the people, for the so-called Social Credit organization. Heil Caesar!

Doll and the SPCA

Recent press reports indicate continued public misunderstanding of the SPCA view, with regard to the killer whale, particularly as to some matters of detail concerning which the SPCA has not made comment.

The SPCA view is clear and simple. We have condemned the capture and conduct of its capture. We have condemned its continued incarceration. We have called for its immediate release.

A meeting of the SPCA provincial executive of September 19, heard a report that when examined on September 17, Moby Doll appeared to have symptoms of a skin ailment. It was understood authorities are considering the possibility that English Bay waters are not suitable for prolonged habitation by the killer whale.

In view of this development and the increasing support from qualified experts for the SPCA call for Moby Doll's release the time has come for Aquarium authorities to issue a full explanation.

Review It All Again

Mr. C. S. Goode's letter re the appointment of a Saanich fire chief can be agreed with in its narrowest sense. Of course a council has the right and duty to hire staff—also the right and duty to discharge.

The dispute over this issue in Saanich council has to do with the procedure and methods followed in the appointment. The council was almost evenly divided. Some of us feel that fairness and equity to all was not followed and therefore we protested. A searching "second look" is very necessary to blow the fog of doubt away.

When we have a full council, after the election, one priority of business should be a complete, fair, impartial and honest "second look" at this appointment.

The council should go over the complete file, perusing all the documents, all information, and asking for the face-to-face views of all concerned.

This is no reflection on the fire chief. In fact those who supported the appointment should be happy to show all was as it should be.

BETWEEN OURSELVES

By Elizabeth Forbes

The Theatre Arts Ball in the Crystal Garden this Friday brings back memories to men and women in Victoria who belonged to the Beaux Arts Society before the Second World War.

This organization included many young people who were amateurs as far as acting was concerned, but who were interested in live theatre.

They organized workshops and brought actors and actresses from Seattle to conduct the training courses.

On meeting nights, in the lower ballroom at the Crystal Garden, members appeared in acts from well-known plays.

They entered the drama festivals, too, and they presented performances for the public.

Outstanding event each year was the Snow Ball, in the Empress Hotel on Boxing Night, Dec. 26.

Decorations were elaborate and the members put on fabulous floor shows.

Mrs. Jack Barraclough, Beaux Arts secretary, says: "We made the decorations and the floor-show costumes ourselves. It took weeks of preparation."

One year the ballroom was transformed with mammoth snowmen and snowballs. Dancers entered through the door of a huge igloo. Another time it was turned into a winter wonderland with glistening white Christmas trees, drenched in silver snowflakes.

Realistic Theme

At one ball, when 600 dancers crowded the floor, it was an Arctic theme, complete with realistic chunks of ice and flashing northern lights.

Maureen Grute (now Mrs. Denis Humphries) and Pat Pennock (Mrs. Cliff Margison), did choreography for the floor shows. Maureen was also soloist.

Once only the ball was billed as a fancy dress affair. Everyone came in costume. Maureen and Denis won first prize as Madame Pompadour and Louis XV.

Beaux Arts patrons included Hon. E. W. Hamber, then lieutenant-governor, and Mrs. Hamber; Hon. G. M. Weir, member of the provincial legislature, and Mrs. Weir; the Count and Countess de Suzanet, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Mayhew, Mr. and Mrs. Will Spencer, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Robertson, Mrs. F. G. Aldous, Mrs. Walter Nichol and Miss Kathleen Agnew.

At one open meeting, with 300 guests, the second act of Noel Coward's "Private Lives" was presented.

Major Bullock-Webster (later to return to England where he died) was director. Leads were taken by Margery Benson and Brian Green. Others in the cast were Orrie Bradford, Laura Dunsmuir (Mitchell), Gregory Crawley, Henry Worthington and Honor Benson.

On the same program was a one-act tragedy with Betty Petch (now Mrs. Gordon Hylker) and Barbara Lloyd-Young (Mrs. Kenneth Dixon) in the lead parts.

"Petticoat Fever," a three-act play, was presented to the public in the Empire Theatre (also named the Pantages, the York and now the McPherson Theatre). Mary Lindgren (Mrs. Harold Hicks of Palm Springs) took the feminine lead. Enid Cole was director.

Prominent Members

Beaux Arts members included Desmond Burdon-Murphy (killed in the last war) and his brother, Brian; Ted and "Snooks" Simmons, Valerie Swan and Dick Hoyle, later to marry; Bill and Jean Findlay, Margaret and Rhoda Goward and their brother, Austin; Doreen McGregor (Sweeting); Jack Rutten, now a B.C. Supreme Court judge; Waldo Skillings, today a member of the provincial legislature, and his wife-to-be, Helen Harris.

Nan Eves (Mrs. Jim Dangerfield) was in the group; Connie Hobbs (Mrs. Syd Pettit); Helen Schwengers (Mrs. Bob Sinclair); Vivian Pennock (Mrs. Moore); Lorraine Pendray (Mrs. Jack Mercer); Edna Humber, then only recently married to Maurice; Dick Stursberg, Helen Baird, Ken and Bill Boorman, Rowland Horsey and a host of others, many of whom are now prominent in the life of Victoria.

The Beaux Arts Society was active in the city until the beginning of the Second World War.

"Then our men went into the services," Kay Barraclough recalls, "the group disbanded, and the girls took up war work."

A Handful of Crushed Bones

Bonemeal is the only fertilizer used at fall planting time because it is slow acting and does not encourage immediate growth.

As the name implies it is derived from animal bones which have been treated to remove all fats and then crushed. The fineness of the grind determines the speed with which its plant food elements will become available.

It contains from 1 to 3 per cent nitrogen in a form readily used by plants, and around 23 to 25 per cent phosphorus.

While it is not an economical way of adding phosphorus to the soil, acid-phosphate (superphosphate) being cheaper, it does not burn roots or foliage and may take from one to three years for all its plant food elements to become available.

Quantities to use at planting time in the open garden are usually expressed by the handful, a very disconcerting measurement for the beginner.

However, it indicates that amounts are not critical and there is not the danger of overdosing which accompanies the use of other fertilizers.

A spring flowering bulb, for instance, would receive about one teaspoonful, while a large shrub or young tree might have two or three handfuls.

The bonemeal is always incorporated well into the soil of the planting hole. This is best accomplished when the soil is reasonably dry and is the reason for the frequent suggestion that planting holes for trees and roses be prepared in September although the plants may not be available until late October.

For greenhouse potting mixtures the standard measure is a four-inch clay pot, one potful being added to a bushel of soil.

As a top dressing for roses and flowering perennials it is generally applied at the rate of 10 lbs to 100 square feet, scattered over the surface of the bed and lightly cultivated into the surface in fall.

De Gaulle Ignores Canal Feelers

BOGOTA (CP)—President de Gaulle wound up his visit to Colombia today leaving unanswered the question of French aid for an inter-ocean canal across the Colombia Isthmus.

The French chief of state ignored feelers for the canal project during his 40-hour visit here, the second stop on his 10-nation goodwill tour of South America. Ecuador is his next stop.

Government officials hoped de Gaulle's visit might result in noteworthy trade and technical agreements. The idea of a modern canal spanning the narrow isthmus of northwest Colombia was high on the list of possibilities.

President Guillermo Leon Valencia broached the subject Tuesday night at a state dinner in honor of de Gaulle. He raised the possibility of France taking the lead in forming an international construction organization with U.S. help.

A communique issued by de Gaulle and Valencia Wednesday night reaffirmed their desire to support stabilized prices for basic products. To Colombia this means coffee, cotton, bananas and petroleum.

U.S. Won't Halt Congo Arms Aid

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Johnson administration has rejected an attempt by the Organization of African Unity to halt U.S. military assistance to the troubled Congo.

"We could not agree to discuss our aid to the Congo without the participation of the Congolese government at whose request our aid is given," state department press officer Robert McCloskey said Wednesday.

Other sources reported that President Johnson's schedule including political campaigning is too crowded to permit a conference with representatives of the OAU, a 34-country African group that has had U.S. support over the years in its efforts to stabilize the Congo.

This means the United States won't discuss its aid program with a five-country OAU delegation that wants such aid—primarily communication and transportation equipment—cut off.

It means the United States has sided with the Congolese government, whose leaders have denounced the effort to halt American assistance.

Announcement of the U.S. position came after Kenya's minister of state, Joseph Murumbi, had left for Washington. Other African nations represented on the mission are Ghana, Guinea, Nigeria and the United Arab Republic.

...REPORTING

OTTAWA—For John Matheson, flag-maker, it's back to the old drawing board.

He's the Liberal backbencher who, a year ago, took it upon himself to write Prime Minister Pearson with his ideas about a Canadian flag. This began correspondence and talks that in effect made the lawyer-MP from Brockville, Ont., an unofficial committee of one to work on a flag design.

He went to Britain and did heraldic research. He enlisted the help of two Canadian experts, Col. A. Fortesque Duguid (ret.) and Cmdr. Allan Beddoe (ret.). They came up with the three red maple leaves on a white background. Mr. Pearson added the blue bars—and while Mr. Matheson and his colleagues remained publicly silent, there is reason to believe they were not happy about the prime ministerial contribution.

But now it's not a committee of one to produce a flag design: it's a committee of 15 MPs representing five political parties. There are seven Grits, five Tories, a Socred, an NDP and a Creditiste. And among them is John Matheson, not at all downcast, bubbling with ideas for the committee to consider.

The committee's best chance of success is if its members go into the matter with open minds and start from fresh beginnings to design a suitable national flag. There is not much purpose, it seems to me, for them to waste time tinkering with the Pearson flag or the Red Ensign.

They should decide on guiding principles: what the new flag should represent, and what it should not. Particularly I think they should reject the "founding races" principle:

that the flag should represent the British and French ancestry of the original white settlers. Rather, they should strive for a flag that will represent Canada today.

They also need to decide on suitable components for that kind of Canadian flag: the national colors of red on white, of course, and then perhaps a sea-to-sea symbol. But there are others. A maple leaf, if Conservative readers will pardon the expression. A crown might be suitable to emphasize that Canada is a kingdom. Canada is a northern country: the North Star? Alternatively, a compass "rose" or arrow to signify the North Magnetic Pole—something no other country has.

The responsibility of the committee is to look for a better flag than any yet suggested. The MPs should seek the best professional advice—design experts, and especially heraldic experts of Britain, the U.S., Scotland, Eire and other countries. Men like Col. Duguid, and Dr. Conrad Swan, a Canadian who is Rouge Dragon in the English College of Arms, should be brought actively into the committee's work to advise on what might be suitable components, and to assist in putting them into various flag forms for the committee to make a selection.

If the committee fails to agree, the government likely will revert to its maple leaf flag, but refrain from pressing the issue. Mr. Pearson has carried out his election promise by putting a proposed flag before Parliament. He could go into the next election with his flag still nailed to the Liberal mast as the design the Liberals favor, but without seeking to make an election issue of it.

NATIONAL FOREST PRODUCTS WEEK September 21-26

IN B.C. HALF YOUR DOLLARS COME FROM FOREST PRODUCTS
KEEP BRITISH COLUMBIA FORESTS GREEN—PREVENT FOREST FIRES

Coast to Coast, from Sept. 21 to 26, we observe NATIONAL FOREST PRODUCTS WEEK. We are happy to have this part in honoring the men and women of our forest industries and the products of their work and ingenuity.

We live in homes built of wood, and we furnish these homes with wood in all its most appealing forms. Millions of new homes are built every year and most of them are built of wood. Our future homes, too, will be wooden homes because wood is a tradition and a heritage of our people.

More and more schools are being built in single storey frame construction because architects have rediscovered wood as a lasting material of great charm and beauty.

In most of our churches, too, the beauty of wood is employed to create an atmosphere of serene repose conducive to worship.

Yes, wood is part of our heritage and it is proper that we should have NATIONAL FOREST PRODUCTS WEEK set aside for special recognition.

Hot on the heels of last year's success, Comet presents "A New Young Look of Luxury".

'65 COMET

Comet sales doubled last year. We loved it. Just as much as people obviously loved Comet.

Comet Caliente 4-door sedan

Comet Caliente convertible

Now, here's the '65 Comet, young, spirited, handsome as all get out and luxurious to boot.

Comet Caliente 2-door hardtop

Not too big a car at not too big a price. But what a lot of car. '65 Comet.

A new young look of luxury takes shape in the lower, wider, forward-reaching lines of '65 Comet. Inside this great new shape, rich colours, textures and patterns (vinyls, fabrics, stripes, plaids) have never been more beautiful. Are touches like walnut-toned trim and deep-pile carpeting your style? The choice is yours. You'll take to the comfort of Comet's suspension the way it takes to the road. More good news: extended power range from the 170 "6" to the spirited 289 V-8's, including the big new 200 "6" with 3-speed automatic transmission. There's a special brand of excitement in each series . . . 202, 404, Caliente and the high-performance Cyclone.

One other thing you'll want to know. How much? The answer is, how little! Drive Comet for '65 fun with a touch of luxury to it.

Flag Firms Ready to Carry Their Sales Banner High

Victoria Daily Times THURS., SEPT. 24, 1964 7

By PAUL DUNN
OTTAWA (CP) — If Parliament can agree, Canada will have a distinctive national flag in a couple of months and flag firms are poised like Olympic runners for their biggest sales spurt in history.

The flag-makers had a profitable trial run earlier this year when the government unveiled its proposed design. But a sales boom collapsed when that design ran into a parliamentary stalemate and a House of Commons committee was set up to pick an acceptable one.

Nobody knows what the final design will be—if and when one is chosen. But flag-making firms estimate more than 8,000,000 copies will be sold and that the race will be to see who can get into production first.

Last May, when the government design was made public, versions of it were on sale in Ottawa within 24 hours. It was three red maple leaves on a white background with a vertical blue stripe at each side.

Frank Therien, co-owner of a small firm in nearby Hull, Que., says his firm sold 60,000 of the maple leaf at $1 each. They were 14 inches wide and caught on quickly as car aerial pennants.

Mr. Therien took on 50 new employees and rode a sales boom until July when a Japanese import flag hit the market at 25 cents and cut him out. Heavy sales vanished about a month later with the parliamentary stalemate.

"In August you couldn't give them away," One unofficial estimate is that 500,000 copies of the maple leaf flag were sold. It was actually a double boom while it lasted, because sales of Canadian Red Ensigns also rocketed, although no accurate national figure is available.

The Red Ensign, featuring the Union Jack in the upper left quarter, has been flown as the official Canadian flag for years. But there long has been an argument that the ensign, with its reminder of the old British colonial connection, isn't truly Canadian.

Slot Machine Contraceptives Answer to VD, Says Health Man

NANAIMO—A Vancouver Island health officer believes the sale of contraceptives in slot machines would do much to cut down venereal disease.

Dr. Leonard Davis, assistant director of the Central Vancouver Island Health Unit, said of the disease this week:

"It is a tremendous problem and we are not getting on top of it — it is getting on top of us."

Only way to defeat the problem was to spend more money on it.

"There is no explanation for the increase," he said. "You can't blame it on promiscuity, because the same groups that are promiscuous today have always been promiscuous."

"It has nothing to do with morals; it is just a disease and can be cured."

Despite much talk about promiscuity among teen-agers, especially in Nanaimo, Dr. Davis said the amount of VD in that age group was "negligible."

The disease, he said, mostly struck transients, loggers and Indians.

One of the worst areas for the disease is central B.C.

Although there is no obvious reason for spread of the disease, Dr. Davis said:

"If the public attitude toward prophylactics was more sensible, if they were readily available, say in slot machines, that would do a great deal to slow down the spread of the disease and prevent many cases."

Metchosin Makes War On Junk

Car wreckers and junkyards are to be the targets of a new ratepayers' association formed Wednesday night in Metchosin.

The association will also work to have garbage dumped in one location only—at a sanitary fill location on Millstream Road.

"It would be a pity if Metchosin became another Langford," said meeting chairman John Page.

Mr. Page is Metchosin's representative on the advisory planning commission. Assisting him at the meeting was Kenneth Rainey, Metchosin's representative on the provincial government committee studying a joint services board.

Mr. Rainey told the meeting he knows very little about what will happen to the proposed board.

"They don't tell you much," he said.

A sewage survey is to be made in Metchosin, but Mr. Rainey said he didn't know the cost yet.

Mr. Page said the area would have serious sewage problems if widespread subdivision were permitted.

Elected as officers of the association were John Page, as chairman; Geoff Mitchell, Larry Ridley, Kenneth Rainey, David Scafe, Elmo Johnson and John Webb.

He Came Home To Death

COURTENAY—Fifteen-year-old David McGee made his last trip to his home town Wednesday.

While here on a visit from Vancouver to see friends, he was knocked down and killed.

A coroner's jury met this morning to view the body. An inquest will be held later in the week.

David was struck by a car while walking along Arderton Road, just outside Comox at 8:15 last night.

Driver of the car was Jack Gallagher, of Courtenay, police said.

Here on a visit to his girl friend, David had moved to Vancouver to live only a week ago.

He travelled from his home at 1201 East 12th Wednesday and was to have returned later in the week.

At the time, David was waiting to hear about starting a job in Vancouver.

COMPANY TOWN TURNED DOWN

Sawmill Goes But Men Stay

PORT ALBERNI—Seventy employees will troop out of the Tahsis Co. sawmill here for the last time next week.

Minutes later the mill will stop humming and close its doors for ever.

Of the 70 redundant workers only 18 intend following the sawmill operation to the company town of Tahsis on the Island's east coast.

The remaining 52 have chosen to follow the queue of unemployed rather than lift up their roots.

When the mill first announced its intention of shutting down in July, all employees were offered the chance of jobs at Tahsis.

Ten of those willing to move houses have families. Among these is mill foreman Jim Olsen.

Once closed, the often controversial mill will be taken over by wrecker George Borden.

His contract includes cleaning the waterfront site, which was held under lease from the city of Port Alberni and CPR. It also includes removal of machinery for resale.

Mill manager Howard Smith said the company had given no indication as to whether they intended releasing the property.

Interest has been expressed by city leaders in developing the site as a marina.

At present the mill turns out between 65,000 and 70,000 board feet of lumber each shift in addition to a big shingle production.

In the next day or so, you may learn something new about the taste of rye whisky. The message takes one minute. And no more than one taste of a whisky called Time. A gentle whisky. The taste is light, warm, smooth. You will find you have never known a whisky with a taste like this. You will find yourself comparing it with the whisky you usually buy. And you may find yourself changing your mind about whiskies. The whisky in the hourglass bottle does that. The message comes through. Not loud. But clear. 60 seconds. Time enough.

MEDWAY QUEEN: Farewell to a side-wheeler.

Proud Lady Retires to Dinner After Missing Inglorious Death

LONDON (NEA)—A wartime heroine who saved the lives of 7,000 British troops in 1940 has just been given a last-minute reprieve from the death sentence.

She is the Medway Queen, a 116-ton side-wheel steamer, credited with rescuing under fire more British soldiers from the flaming beaches of Dunkirk than any other non-naval vessel.

Since the war the Medway Queen has been plying the Thames River as a pleasure boat, her glorious wartime record all but forgotten. But when it was announced last October that the famous paddle steamer, now a dowager of 40, was to be broken up for scrap, a group of sentimental Britons decided to do something about it.

They formed the Medway Queen Trust with the goal of raising $24,000 to buy the side-paddler by August this year. They were far short of their goal, however, when a catering firm stepped in with a sizeable last-minute contribution. Now it looks as though the Medway Queen will finish her days as a restaurant anchored along the Thames.

PRESERVE DIGNITY

The catering firm has assured the boat's original backers that it will do everything possible to preserve the Medway Queen's original character and dignity.

The Medway Queen's fame goes back to May, 1940, when half a million British troops found themselves bottled up on a narrow strip of beach at Dunkirk by the advancing Nazi offensive.

Not even the most optimistic British general thought that more than 30 per cent of these troops could be evacuated. But a fleet of small craft, including the Medway Queen, set out from Britain to try to bring the boys safely home.

The "Mosquito Armada," as this motley assortment of vessels was called, included oyster dredgers, cockle boats, as well as coal-burning minesweepers and private yachts.

They had such fanciful names as the Royal Daffodil, the Brighton Belle, and Yorkshire Lass, and there was even a Dracula and a Frightened Lady among the craft.

SEVEN TRIPS

What distinguished the Medway Queen from the others was that she was not only one of the first ships in at Dunkirk, but one of the last ships out, making seven round trips.

Her crew was under almost continuous shellfire and aerial strafing, and managed with only a few hours' sleep and very little food for six days.

Robert Brett, a crew member, describes the weird sight that greeted him when he took ashore one of the big boats the Medway Queen had towed to Dunkirk.

DEW Line To Be Manned If Struck

Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Defence Minister Paul Hellyer said today that in the event of a strike the national defence department would not leave the distant early warning line unmanned. But he declined to say who would man the technical posts in the event of such an emergency.

The minister would not comment on a report in the Winnipeg Free Press that members of the union claimed that they had been advised that the United States Air Force was standing by ready to fly in American servicemen to keep the line operating.

The threat of a strike on the line was averted Wednesday when both sides in the current dispute agreed to binding arbitration.

BUNDLES FOR BRITAIN

Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — A considerable number of pregnant Canadian women are going to the United Kingdom to have their babies under the free medical care plan, British and Canadian sources reluctantly confirmed here.

The disclosure that this practice had developed into something of a "racket" was made by an Ottawa woman who travelled to Britain last month by ship.

Surprised at the number of pregnant women who were travelling to the U.K., she made enquiries and learned they were on their way to have their babies in Britain.

She wrote a letter to a close relative, J. K. Thompson, who is editor of the Ottawa Times weekly and he reprinted it.

At the department of national health and welfare, an official commented, "I suppose the cost of setting up an elaborate screening method to catch those people would exceed the costs involved in providing such services as are involved when a baby is born."

PENSION of $100,000 a year will go to Queen Mother Frederika of Greece, according to Athens newspaper. Frederika's husband, King Paul, died last March and their son, Constantine, now is king.

ALCOA Found Guilty

ST. LOUIS (AP)—A federal judge found the Aluminum Company of America guilty Tuesday of violating a U.S. anti-trust law and ordered it to divest itself of its ownership in a St. Louis firm. U.S. District Judge James H. Meredith ruled Alcoa's avowed purpose in acquiring Cupples Products Corporation in 1960 was to get 40 per cent of the aluminum curtain wall business.

U.S. FARM SURPLUSES

'Food for Peace' Extended

WASHINGTON (AP)—A two-year extension of the "food for peace" program for disposing of U.S. farm surpluses overseas was agreed upon Tuesday by a Senate - House of Representatives conference committee.

Fixing a new $3,500,000,000 authorization, the measure retains part of the Senate provisions for tighter congressional controls over foreign currencies obtained in the transactions. And it includes the intent of House amendments directed at banning deals with "aggressor nations" or "Communist-dominated" countries, unless the president determines such trading is in the U.S. national interest. The House had voted an outright ban on sales to such nations, principally Poland and Yugoslavia.

The compromise now goes back to the Senate and then the House for expected final approval. The extender would continue for two years beyond this year a 10-year-old program which has cost some $17,000,000,000 and resulted in movement of some $12,300,000,000 worth of agricultural products overseas. President Johnson had asked a five-year extension of the program.

Little Change Expected

By GORDON BELL
Times Business Editor

Just how much effect will Finance Minister Gordon's plan to broaden the freedom of life insurance companies to invest in common stocks have on the companies' portfolio management practices and on the availability of stocks in the market-place?

A few commentators on the Gordon plan have expressed the fear that if the life insurance companies step up their buying of stocks it could have the effect of depleting an already rather thin supply of good value Canadian equities. But judging from the insurance firms' past performances in the market—as well as taking into account the investment needs of these companies—there really seems little to fear on that account.

In fact, it is more likely that life firms' equity buying habits will be so little changed as to disappoint Mr. Gordon's obvious hopes that they will provide much of the money needed to repatriate foreign-controlled corporations.

The superintendent of insurance at Ottawa recently published his report for 1963 which showed that at year-end the 110 Canadian, British and foreign life insurance companies operating in Canada reported total assets of just over $13 billion. The Canadian firms reported that the book value of stocks held by them accounted for 5.5 per cent of total assets compared with 44.2 per cent in bonds and 39.1 per cent in mortgage loans on real estate. The stock holdings had increased by only a modest 3.2 per cent over the previous year and, in terms of percentage of total assets represented, a slightly smaller proportion than in 1962.

SMALL HOLDING

While it was the life companies which initiated, in 1961, the move to raise the limit of assets which could be held in stocks from 15 to 25 per cent, the average holding in the past three years has been only a little over one-third of the previous limit. A number of large companies actually have less than 5 per cent of assets in common stocks and several are around the 3 per cent mark.

The other side of the restriction on stock investment—which the life companies had also asked to be removed—was limitation to fully-paid shares of corporations with at least a seven-year record of dividend paying. The insurance people argued that this restricted them to a list of about 300 stocks of which there were only about 100 available in sufficient quantity to make them worth purchasing.

But will removal of this "blue chip" rule actually set life insurance firms gambling in the stock market? And is it in any way desirable that they should do so?

The answer to both questions must be a resounding "no" since the firms' contracts with policyholders absolutely preclude the taking of unnecessary investment risks. Some increase in common stock investment in something a little less than the "bluest of the blue chips" might be acceptable to some firms which are having difficulty in placing their surplus funds. But any firm which tried to go to the 25 per cent limit in even moderately speculative equities would run the grave risk of losing policy sales.

Tell More To Investors Firms Urged

TORONTO (CP)—The Toronto Stock Exchange, in a brief to the Ontario attorney-general's committee on securities legislation, places emphasis on making more corporate information available to shareholders.

In the brief, made public Sunday, the exchange says: "Full disclosure can build public confidence and establish and maintain in all companies those standards of ethics which are already accepted by most leading companies."

It says any legislation in connection with full disclosure should apply to unlisted as well as listed securities, and equivalent legislation should be adopted in other provinces.

On "insider" trading, it says insiders in some cases use their knowledge to the detriment of the public.

There would be fewer instances of such abuse if a director's trading in a company's shares were made public.

The brief proposed that a register of directors' holdings and transactions should be kept and made available to the public.

The brief says present requirements for corporate reporting to shareholders are inadequate and suggests improvement in annual reports, including the filing of statements with an appropriate government department to insure compliance with legislative requirements.

Bell

After all, people don't buy life insurance for the purpose, in effect, of having a fling in the stock market. They expect that when their policies mature or become payable through death that the money will be there.

A few Canadian life firms hoping to make heavier profits through stock market appreciation may be willing to take the risk but the chances are that the biggest and best of them will stick to their conservative and safe investment policies.

TOKYO (UPI)—The 11-man, government-sponsored Japanese business delegation leaving for Canada Oct. 4 may have its eye on a deal for oil from the rich Athabasca tar sands now being opened in northern Canada, the delegation leader said today.

The Japanese are interested in selling the Canadians machinery and supplies for recovering the oil, Yoshihiro Inayama, president of Yawata, Japan's largest steelmakers said.

In return, they may be interested in getting an assured supply of oil from the Athabasca deposit, estimated to contain in excess of one trillion barrels. The Japanese have recently been in political hot water with their principal supplier, Kuwait.

The Canadian government recently granted recovery rights to a group of petroleum companies on the tar sands. Their development has been postponed for several years.

Inayama, in a news conference at the foreign correspondents club here, said that this group has "no intention to spend its time selling."

In almost the same breath, however, he went on to say that the Japanese have "recently heard of" the planned development of the Canadian sands.

He said the Japanese have a large and able machinery industry, and believe that they may be able to compete very favorably on supplying machinery for the development of these sands.

The Japanese last year imported about 70 million metric tons of crude petroleum, of which two-thirds came from Kuwait, and most of the rest from Saudi Arabia.

They have long been worried about the political instability of the Middle East.

HE STARTED WITH A BEAT-UP CELLO

Nothing Bugs Spangler A. Brugh

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—“I’ve seen them all come and go, and I’m still hanging around,” cheerfully remarked Spangler Arlington Brugh, the famous movie star, who recently celebrated his 53rd birthday.

“I feel pretty good about life. There’s nothing much that bugs me. I’ve always successfully avoided anything that bored me too much.

“The only thing I worry about is what’s my next picture going to be.”

Tanned, blue-eyed and still strikingly handsome, Spangler Arlington Brugh recently completed for producer Joseph Levine the leading male role in A House Is Not a Home, based on the book by Polly Adler.

As a boy-back in Beatrice, Neb., he wanted to be a doctor like his father. As a youth he lugged a battered cello to California and hoped to become a musician.

But a talent scout saw him in a college play and he went to work for MGM in 1934 at $35 a week. He stayed there 26 years, the longest period any top star has ever worked for any one studio.

And Spangler Arlington Brugh did become a top star.

MOBBED BY CROWDS

He was mobbed by crowds of up to 5,000 people. A news magazine once described him as “the most admired matinee idol since the late Rudolph Valentino.”

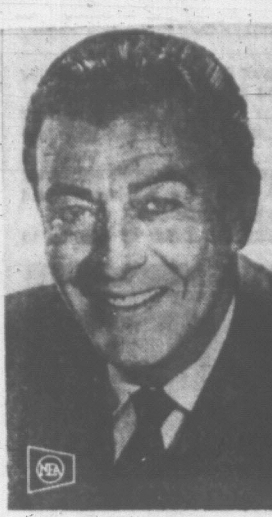

One poll in 1936 rated him as more popular than Clark Gable. His weekly salary climbed that year to $3,000, his weekly fan mail to 7,000 letters.

A list of the leading ladies he played opposite makes a roll-call of Hollywood’s most beautiful stars, past and present—Jean Harlow, Norma Shearer, Janet Gaynor, Maureen O’Sullivan, Joan Crawford, Loretta Young, Myrna Loy, Vivien Leigh, Greer Garson, Barbara Stanwyck, Lana Turner, Ava Gardner, Elizabeth Taylor and Shelley Winters.

In 30 years Spangler Arlington Brugh earned millions of dollars, appeared in nearly 70 films and starred in a television series, The Detectives.

During all that time, he avoided public scandals, was well liked by his fellow workers—and never won an Academy Award. Today he and his second wife, actress Ursula Theiss, live quietly with their two young children on a 113-acre farm near Beverly Hills where they are raising 17 quarter horses, 52 hens and two roosters.

GOOD JOB

“I’ve always considered acting a damn good job, and a good living. It has let me lead the kind of life I like.”

The keyword to Spangler Arlington Brugh is honesty. Unlike some who win fame, he has strong feelings of gratitude.

Looking back across the years, he said he felt most grateful to two people: MGM studio boss Louis B. Mayer who built him into a star, and to his former wife, Barbara Stanwyck, of whom he said:

“She had been in the theatre all her life. She knew all the pitfalls an actor could run into in Hollywood.

“She gave me a lot of good advice, even before we were married. It was very helpful, no doubt of it. She had a very down-to-earth attitude about the necessity of taking your acting work seriously. I learned a lot from her—just watching and listening.”

At 53 Spangler Arlington Brugh has a special reason for feeling grateful to studio tycoon Mayer. He said:

“It was he who changed my name to Robert Taylor.”

20th-Century Frontiersmen Probe North

By ROLAND STIEN

MONTREAL (CP)—Four 20th-century frontiersmen have driven, flown and hiked their way into one of northwest Canada’s most remote areas.

The summer trip took the hardy quartette to the headwaters of the South Nahanni River along the border between the Yukon and the Northwest Territories.

The expedition was led by Jean Poirol of Montreal, a 31-year-old physical education teacher.

Two other members of the team, Bertrand Borden Bordet, 27, and Roger Rochat, 26, are natives of France, while Claude Bernardin, 31, comes from Algeria. The three say they plan to apply for Canadian citizenship.

Mr. Bordet supervised scientific observations during the journey. Mr. Rochat shot pictures and Mr. Bernardin acted as cook for the privately financed expedition.

USED PARACHUTES

The headwaters of the South Nahanni are 1,000 miles north of Vancouver. The river flows southeast into the Liard River which in turn feeds the Mackenzie.

The party returned to Montreal in August after leaving here by truck June 15.

ON THE STUMP—There’s no doubt about it. GOP presidential candidate Barry Goldwater is literally stumping for votes. He’s speaking at Eugene, Ore.

Saanich Pilot Sees Four Die

ATLIN, B.C. (CP)—A helicopter pilot from Saanich watched in horror Monday as a single-engine Beaver aircraft curled into a spin and carried four men to death in Trapper Lake, 90 miles southwest of here.

Pilot William Dicks of Terrace, B.C., was killed, along with three prospectors, one of whom was identified as E. J. (Ted) Powell, about 25, who came to Canada two years ago from Rhodesia.

A third victim was identified as Robin Gum of Crystal Brook, South Australia.

Name of the fourth victim was withheld.

Rod McRae, spokesman for Julian Mining Company of Vancouver, which employed the three prospectors, said helicopter pilot Bill Clifford of 5206 Old West Saanich Road witnessed the crash.

SPUN IN

The Beaver had just taken off from the lake, about 320 miles northwest of Prince Rupert, B.C. It climbed to about 800 feet, then fell into a spin and crashed into the water.

Clifford flew his helicopter over the crash scene but was unable to pick up any of the victims.

Watching from the shore were Clifford’s mechanic, Bert Fallman of Vancouver, and mining company personnel Bob Adamson, Joseph Roscoe and Norman McLeod.

Clifford is a pilot for Vancouver Island Helicopters Ltd.

Regional Office In Vancouver For Health Spas

Decision to set up an independent regional office in Vancouver of Palm Springs Health Spas International was taken at the recent annual meeting in Indianapolis, Charles Tartella, manager of the Victoria branch of the organization announced Wednesday.

The Vancouver office, under directorship of Robert W. Yenior, will control all Canadian operations of the company as well as those in Washington, Oregon, California, Hawaii, Alaska and Australia and will eventually have a staff of over 100.

The meeting also agreed that the planned $2,000,000 expansion program in Canada would be boosted to $4,500,000 and the number of spas increased to 26. At present there are five branches in Vancouver, one in Victoria and four under construction, one each in Calgary, and Edmonton and two in the Toronto area.

Fire Truck Needs Rescue Equipment

Victoria Fire Department is in the market for a new ladder truck with rescue equipment.

Fire chief John Abbott said Wednesday tenders are being called by city purchasing agent G. F. Sharpe.

He estimated the value of the truck at about $30,000, and said it is to come with complete rescue and fire-fighting equipment.

Bruins Pin Playoff Hopes On Left-Wing Element

Boston Bruins' guiding hands are convinced their hired ones can crack the National Hockey League playoffs this season.

Led by coach Milt Schmidt, Bruins arrived in town Wednesday for tonight's exhibition game with Victoria Maple Leafs. They came, Schmidt admits, without "a super star."

Solidly towing along, however, was a feeling the Bruins can make the playoffs. Also in tow were three leftwingers who manager Lynn Patrick feels are "the strongest left wing crew in the league." The reference is to veterans Johnny Bucyk, Dean Prentice and Ab McDonald.

Both Patrick and Schmidt agree there are other factors to be considered, but they point to the leftwingers as "the possible key to our chances this year."

Schmidt, for one, wouldn't mind coming up with a "super star" along the lines of Detroit's Gordie Howe or Chicago's Bobby Hull.

"We don't have any super stars but if we had just one player like Howe or Hull we'd finish first or second, I assure you. That's just how much difference they make to a hockey team," said Schmidt.

Bruins haven't placed a player on the first NHL all-star team since Fleming Mackell was selected 11 years ago.

Schmidt added, however, the lack of a super star isn't the only reason Bruins have placed last in the last four seasons.

"All the good clubs today had two or three or four good juniors coming up at the same time... We haven't had many and this makes a tremendous difference."

Boston in an off-season trade with Chicago Black Hawks. The Bruins also obtained hard-rocks Murray Balfour and Reggie Fleming from the Hawks.

Ticket sales during the past few days indicate a good crowd will be on hand in the 5,033-seat Memorial Arena to hold out the welcome mat for professional hockey's return to the city.

Tonight's game, due to start at 8, is the first of two exhibitions the Rudy Pilous-coached Leafs will play at home. They will meet the parent Toronto Maple Leafs on Monday night.

A hungry punter sidled up to the trainer of a favorite at Sandown Park Wednesday and asked: "You goin' to win?"

"I guess so," said the trainer blithely. "I have nothing better to do."

As it developed the horse had nothing. And the punter remained hungry. Lots of other favorites, performing with magnificent indifference, left a host of bettors in the same boat—wheezing and wallet-stricken.

Only two "good things" arrived in the winner's circle. One of them had to lift his whiskers high in the last jump to get a dead-heat for first money.

HAIR-RAISING SITUATION

A drying-out track—the kind which drives present handicappers right out of their wigs—brought these developments:

- Four horses paid off in double figures;
- The first quinnella yielded a lofty $187.70; and
- Winning times, generally, ranged from awful to pitiful.

As one observer said after watching a field assault six furlongs in 1:16, "I thought the first half hour of that race was the best."

Long-striding horses in particular suffered from the "good" surface. The ground consistently broke from under them to the chagrin of their supporters.

DEAD HEAT

The day produced two other firsts.

In the fourth race Amsterman and Knockemblue toddled to the line in an unbreakable knot. Nearly everyone thought Amsterman had his molar on the money. But in the last jump Knockemblue's head came up, muzzled precisely in line with Amsterman.

Exacto bettors who played the combination both ways to be safe collected twice. Not since Exacto betting was instituted in B.C. has there been a dead heat in the event. The combination of Amsterman-Knockemblue returned $47.50. Reversed, the reward was $43.

Amsterman was the surprise of the party. In his last 12 excursions the kindest thing that could be said about him was that he finished. But on a drying-out track...

A race to remember was the two-year-old dash.

RUNNING WIDE

Judo Holt, a gifted Dark Hawk colt, grabbed it after getting a solid body-check on the first turn. His luck wasn't all bad, however.

Sir Kit, physically the most imposing baby in the bunch, was taken for a wide sightseeing tour on the same bend. Apparently hopelessly beaten on the last turn, he came like gang-busters in the stretch to finish second at 14-1.

To compound Sir Kit's misadventure, jockey Bill Howe misplaced his whip out of the gate. The colt literally ran on his own.

For trainer Bill Lochead, these mishaps represented a "kick in the pants." Earlier he had suffered the real thing. Saddling the youngster before the race, Lochead turned his back momentarily and Sir Kit, taking aim, belted him where he sits.

TRACK TALK... Charley Ulrich, Jimmy Broomfield and apprentice Russ Combs guided two winners each... For the third successive day the mutual play was down from the corresponding day last year... The handle was $79,849 or $285 below par... Form chart on Page 18.

Canada's Goulet Gains British Women's Semis

SANDWICH, England (CP)—Canada's Joanne Goulet advanced to the semi-finals of the British women's amateur golf championship today when she defeated Nancy Roth of the United States on the 19th hole.

Miss Goulet, 28, a civil servant from Regina, joined a pair of Americans and a British lass in the semi-finals this afternoon. The 36-hole final will be played Friday.

Miss Goulet took dead aim at the title Wednesday when she pulled one of the biggest upsets of the tournament by knocking off Mrs. Marley Spearman, British Walker Cup player, 3 and 2.

Today, Miss Goulet, the only survivor of three Canadians that started out in the star-studded field Tuesday, began her charge on the 14th hole, where she sank a seven-foot putt for a birdie four against Miss Roth's five.

The Canadian took the 15th and 16th and then at the 17th Miss Roth was battered, failed to get out and conceded the hole.

LANDS IN HOLLOW

They came to the home green with Miss Roth still 1 up. The American who had been playing exceptionally well in the last few weeks in the United Kingdom pushed her second shot into the hollow at the right of the green, chipped up and missed the putt for a five.

Miss Goulet was on in two and down in regulation four.

At the extra hole Miss Goulet went through the green, chipped back to five feet and holed the putt for a four.

After the match the disappointed Miss Roth, from Hollywood, said: "Joanne got a birdie on the 14th and from then on she played some great golf. I just played lousy, and that's about it."

Miss Goulet hopes to become the second Canadian to win the British prize so rich in prestige. The first was Marlene Stewart of Fonthill, Ont., who won the British amateur in 1956 after capturing the U.S. amateur that year.

OTHERS ADVANCE

Also advancing to the semi-finals were Phyllis Ann Preuss and Carol Sorenson of the United States and English Walker cupper Bridget Jackson.

Miss Preuss scored a 4 and 3 triumph over France's 19-year-old Catherine Lacoste and Miss Sorenson defeated Barbara Fay White 2 and 1. Miss Jackson scored a 5 and 3 victory over Ann Rampton of England.

Miss Preuss and Miss White were paired in one semifinal while Miss Goulet met Miss Jackson in the other.

Aussie Pair Favored In Davis Cup Singles

CLEVELAND, Ohio (UPI)—The draw was to be made today for this weekend's Davis Cup tennis challenge round, with Australia's Roy Emerson and Fred Stolle favored to win back the cup from the United States no matter how the draw turned out.

Paul Rebuffs Oakland Bid

CLEVELAND (AP)—President Gabe Paul of Cleveland Indians rejected an offer Wednesday from an Oakland, Calif., group offering to buy the club for a reported $6,500,000 and move the franchise to Oakland. The offer was made in a telegram to Paul, who owns 20 percent interest in the American League baseball team.

In addition to the Oakland offer, two Cleveland groups reportedly have made substantial proposals to buy the Indians and keep the team here.

Cincy Strikes Fear In Hearts Of Phil Fans

Massacre of Lake Erie Completed—Yankees Have Fat Four-Game Bulge

UP International

Are the Philadelphia Phillies faltering or fainting? That's the big question in the suddenly-revived National League race today with the Cincinnati Reds back within striking range of first place but with the Phillies still enjoying a 3½-game lead.

The question is not whether the Reds can keep winning but whether the Phillies can start winning again.

The Reds bounced smartly back into long-shot contention Wednesday night when their 6-4 victory completed a three-game sweep of the Phillies and dealt them their fifth loss in their last six games. The Reds, meanwhile have won four straight and seven out of nine.

Supporting the Reds' hopes is the fact that they play five of their last 10 games with the last-place New York Mets and also have two face-to-face meetings with the Phillies. Against this reasonably optimistic outlook is the simple mathematical fact that five Philadelphia victories in their final nine games would mean the Reds would have to

Magic Number Is Six for Berramen

The massacre of Lake Erie is over and the American League pennant race has gone up in the smoke of New York Yankee firepower.

It's all over except for the popping of the champagne corks in the Yankee clubhouse because the defending champions have rocketed into a four-game lead over both the Baltimore Orioles and the Chicago White Sox.

The Yankees have 10 games to play but their magic pennant-clinching number is down to six—meaning that any combination of Yankee victories and losses by either opponent totaling six will end the race.

Phrased more simply in view of the Yankees' current nine-game whirlwind streak, the Yankees will win the pennant merely by winning six of their remaining 10 games.

The Yankees moved to the threshold of their fifth straight flag and first under Yogi Berra when they swept a two-night doubleheader from the Cleveland Indians 4-3 in 11 innings and 6-4 Wednesday night. Their second straight doubleheader sweep enabled the Yankees to pick up a game and a half on the Orioles, who lost to the Detroit Tigers 10-3 and a half game on the White Sox, who scored a 2-1 win over the Los Angeles Angels.

Balding Blisters Broadmoor—64

SEATTLE (UPI)—Al Balding of Toronto fired six birdies, one on a 50-foot putt, to take the early first round lead Wednesday with a six-under-par 64 in the $40,000 Greater Seattle Open golf tournament.

Balding had four birdies on the par 34 front nine and shaved two off par on the par 36 back nine.

Except for early morning fog, the weather was perfect over the 6,328-yard Broadmoor Golf Club course. Nearly 150 pros were entered in the tourney.

Frank Wharton and Johnny Pott each came in five under par at 65 and several golfers were bunched at 66.

NEEDED EAGLE

Paul Bondeson needed an eagle on the par-five 18th for his 66.

Others at 66 included Butch Baird, Howie Johnson and Gene Little.

A flock of pros were in at 68: Ron McLeod, Ken Still, Jackie Cupit, Jim Ferree, Duff Lawrence, Willie Scholl and Ray Botts.

FINAL SUNDAY

The most sensational shot of the day belonged to Nick Lock, who holed a 100-yard wedge shot on the 16th par-four hole for an eagle. Lock had seven birdies plus his eagle but six bogies and a double-bogie held him to a 69.

The field will be cut to 70 after today's second round and to 60 after the third round Friday. The final round will be played Sunday with Saturday a day off because of crowded parking conditions that will be caused by the University of Washington-Baylor football game.

Play resumes today after being adjourned because of rain.

Resignation Threat Follows Fees Hassle

LONDON (Reuters)—The secretary of the British Amateur Athletics Board today offered to resign in the wake of a dispute over television fees earned by athletes bound for the Olympic Games in Tokyo.

The dispute flared up Wednesday night when some members of the Olympic team refused to appear on a television program because of disagreement as to who decided what clubs or charities would receive the fees.

Amateur athletes are not allowed to keep any fees for themselves.

The resignation offered by Secretary Jack Crump was declined by the British Amateur Athletics Board which asked him to reconsider.

Athletes involved in the dispute included team captain Robbie Brightwell and team manager Pat Sage.

Sage said Brightwell had "caused a split within the team" when he refused to appear on the television program.

world has written off Crothers and Kidd as medal winners in the Tokyo Olympics next month.

"This is great, just great," said Foot, the Toronto East York coach. "Now I can go to Tokyo and sit in the stands and just wait and see. Nobody really wants to go there as a favorite in any event and I'm happy that our guys are going to Tokyo minus the pressure that favorites have to bear."

"We'll go along with all the experts. On the times Bill and Bruce have had this year, I really can't blame them."

Foot pointed out, however, that experts have been known to be dead wrong.

A classic example was in the 1962 British Empire Games at Perth, Kidd, then a 19-year-old, was picked to finish outside the first six in the six miles.

He won it and then less than 48 hours later attempted the double in the three miles. Waiting for him was that old cutie, 29-year-old Murray Halbert of

New Zealand, the 5,000-metre Olympic champion in 1960. Halbert had scratched from the six miles and was fresh and eager to take on the Canadian youngster.

Kidd, bothered by sore feet, just didn't have it and finished third behind Halbert and Australia's Ron Clarke.

That was the rubber match between the University of Toronto political science student and Halbert. In June 1962, at Compton, Calif., Kidd won the 5,000 metres in 13:43.4. Three weeks later, at Walnut, Calif.,

Halbert beat Kidd over the three-mile distance. He was the cutie that time, too. Twenty-four hours earlier, Kidd had won the six miles while Halbert sat in the stands. "I won't double up like this again," Kidd said. "You can't win the six and three-mile races on successive days."

He went against his better judgment at Perth. Next month, though, it is likely he'll run the 10,000 metres, skip the 5,000 three days later and then take a crack at the marathon. Halbert also is expected to go into the 10,000 metres and skip the 5,000.

Crothers is given a fourth-place rating at Tokyo. "Well," says Foot, "Bill was listed first in the world last year and 14th this year. That's going on race times. But his record is pretty good against the favorites."

Top ranking has been given to Jerry Siebert of the U.S. with team-mate Morgan Groth picked for the second-place silver and Jamaica's George Kerr for the third-place bronze.

Things could be interesting in Tokyo.

Cards Dealing Keane Out?

NEW YORK (AP)—Johnny Keane said Wednesday, he had no idea whether he will be asked to return as manager of St. Louis Cardinals next year.

The little skipper, who has kept the Cardinals in the National League pennant race, said he did not expect to learn his status until the end of the season.

"The club has been on the road for a long spell and I've had very little communication with the front office," he said.

PAPER CLAIMS FINLEY REJECTS BID FOR A's

KANSAS CITY (AP)—The Kansas City Star reported today that Charles O. Finley has told a group of businessmen here he won't sell Kansas City Athletics for less than $8,000,000 and perhaps he wouldn't even take that.

The story does not identify any of the businessmen or say what they proposed to pay for the club.

Finley recently said he would offer the baseball team to a Kansas City interest for $8,000,000 unless his fellow American League owners voided the sale of New York Yankees to the Columbia Broadcasting System.

Detectives said an investigation was continuing.

Sovereign's Sails Let British Down

SYDNEY, Australia (Reuters)—The Americans are "scared stiff" by Australia's 1967 America's Cup challenge, Melbourne yachtsmen brothers, Frank and John Livingston, said today on return from the Constellation-Sovereign races.

"They know that Australia really means business this time," said Frank Livingston. "In our opinion it will be the closest race ever," he added.

Both said they had expected Sovereign, which beat their Kurrewa V for the right to challenge the U.S., to be easily defeated from the start.

"It was no surprise to us and we were quite astonished to see how confident the English were," John said.

Frank said that it was Sovereign's sails that had let the Britons down—and not lack of seamanship.

The brothers said they already had a design for another yacht, the Kurrewa VI, and were planning to make another America's Cup challenge in 1970.

"Because all our research has been done in England this challenge will have to be made from there after the Australian challenge in 1967," Frank said.

MacKay's Squad Carries Series To Seventh Game

WHITBY, Ont. (CP)—A storybook goal with 12 seconds left to play Wednesday night pulled Vancouver Carlings into a do-or-die showdown with Brooklyn Merchants for the Canadian senior lacrosse Mann Cup championship.

Gord Gimple's goal in the dying seconds of the fourth period gave the Western club a 13-12 edge in the sixth game of the best-of-seven series and set the stage for Friday's deciding game here.

Vancouver, making a comeback after trailing three games to one, lagged 3-1 and 5-4 in the first two periods but rallied to take an 8-7 lead by the end of the third.

With 30 seconds left in the final period, Vancouver held a commanding 12-10 lead but two Brooklyn goals within eight seconds erased the margin. Racing down the floor, Gimple sped past the Brooklyn defence to take a long pass from Fred Usselman and dump the winner past goaltender Pat Baker.

Alex Carey led the Vancouver attack with three goals while Gimple and Bill Chisholm added two each. Bill Barbour, Sid Warick, John Cervi, Ron Hammerling, Peter Black and Usselman also tallied for the Westerners.

Nestman Comes Up With Big Game

Scoring two each for Brooklyn were Bob Allen, Cy Coombes, Larry Ferguson and Glen Loton. Gerry Burrows, Grant Hefernan, Ron Roy and Paul Henderson added one each.

Vancouver coach Alex MacKay credited a "terrific team performance" and solid goaltending from Norm Nestman for the victory. The bespectacled Nestman faced 46 shots while Baker was tested 35 times by Vancouver.

Usselman, who scored five goals for Vancouver in Monday's game, was heavily checked in Wednesday night's game.

Vancouver received eight of 14 penalties, including a major to Usselman who cut Brooklyn's Ken Rutlan on the chin with his stick during a third-period scuffle. Each player drew a two-minute minor as well.

Brooklyn coach Ken Crawford said he planned no lineup changes for the final game.

APPLAUSE 'INCREDIBLE'

MOSCOW (AP)—American opera star Leontyne Price says "the warmth of the audience was incredible" at her first performance in Russia. The audience called the Mississippi-born Negro soprano, conductor Herbert von Karajan and other soloists back for 16 curtain calls Wednesday night after a performance of Verdi's "Requiem." The applause lasted 26 minutes.

President Holds N-Arms Control

Top Generals Have 'Option to Act' Only If Contact Lost With Capital

WASHINGTON (AP)—Pentagon sources reported the top U.S. military commander in Europe, who is also supreme allied commander, is under strict orders to consult with the president before employing any nuclear weapons — if at all possible.

But if Washington is knocked out, or if communications are shattered, it is believed that the top U.S. commander in Europe — and possibly other top American officers — would have the option to act.

Among the other top officers would be included the commander in chief in the Pacific and possibly the head of the U.S. air defences.

High civil and military defence officials have refused to discuss details of restrictions under which senior commanders operate so far as use of nuclear weapons is concerned.

However, Gen. Lauris Norstad, retired former supreme commander in Europe, was quoted Wednesday by the Washington Star as denying he ever had received any delegated authority from Presidents Eisenhower and Kennedy to use nuclear weapons.

Norstad, now president of Owens-Corning Fibreglas International, was interviewed by Crosby S. Noyes, The Star's foreign affairs editor, after Time magazine said he "never had any doubt about his authority to act in the event of any attack on Western Europe during the Cuba missile crisis of 1962; he could use his tactical weaponry."

Both Time and U.S. News and World Report said in articles this week in essence, that Presidents Eisenhower and Kennedy had delegated to the allied commander in Europe the power to use nuclear weapons under certain circumstances — and that President Johnson had done likewise.

The question has become a major issue in the presidential campaign with Republican candidate Barry Goldwater arguing that the supreme commander of North Atlantic Treaty Organization forces in Europe should be given "greater control" over tactical atomic weapons in his force.

President Johnson and Defence Secretary Robert S. McNamara have insisted publicly that the decision to use nuclear weapons is — and should stay — the president's.

In The Star interview, Gen. Norstad said: "I have not said that I held any delegated authority from the president. I have never said one word to support or deny any delegation of authority to me in the use of nuclear weapons. The authority of any commander varies with circumstances and time and his relationship with the president. It is an extremely personal thing."

New Union Accepted
PORTLAND (AP)—Two international pulp and paper unions will be replaced by a rebel union for some 21,000 workers on the U.S. west coast as the result of a vote in the industry. The national labor relations board said Wednesday that 10,635 workers had voted to be represented by the Association of Western Pulp and Paper Workers, and 8,150 had voted to retain the International Brotherhood of Pulp, Sulphite and Paper Mill Workers and the United Papermakers and Paperworkers.

Old Theatre Copied.

Doctors Cut Fees to Aid Ailing MSI

VANCOUVER (CP)—British Columbia doctors have agreed to take a one-sixth cut in fees in a move to salvage their experimental, accept-all-comers medical insurance plan.

A spokesman for the British Columbia Medical Association said Wednesday the cut will apply only on the bills of about 26,000 persons enrolled in the special open plan D of the physicians' own Medical Services Incorporated.

The reduction is expected to cost the doctors about $45,000 during the next three months. The group affected is about one-fifth of the total MSI enrolment. Following a day-long meeting, the medical association agreed doctors will accept $3.75 as full payment for a $5 office visit for patients enrolled under the experimental plan. Up to now they have been paid $4.50.

The move is aimed at saving the open enrolment plan under which the doctors offered comprehensive coverage of doctors' bills to anyone in B.C., regardless of age or state of health.

It had been hoped the plan would absorb the minority of British Columbians, estimated at about 12 per cent, unable to obtain medical insurance coverage under any other plan. The plan has been operating about one year.

Three weeks ago MSI closed the open-enrolment plan so that no new subscribers could be admitted. Premiums for existing subscribers were raised about 20 per cent.

The plan, instituted Sept. 1, 1963, had run up a $142,000 deficit by June, 1964. This was partly offset by registration fees and a $50,000 lump-sum transfer from MSI's general funds.

The plan's costs have been steadily rising and the loss for July, August and September is expected to be $50,000.

DEAR ABBY . . .

She Leads a Dog's Life!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Is there such a thing as a retarded poodle? We got this beautiful white miniature French poodle a year ago when it was only five weeks old, and it isn't any better trained today than the day we got it. It still wets all over. We can't seem to keep it off the furniture or to get it to let us know when it wants to go outside. Abby, I can't live like this any more. That dog has ruined every carpet in the house, all of the furniture and every bedspread. I told my husband I think we should give it away, but he says he would move into the garage with the dog before he gave it away. I like dogs, but this is ridiculous! What do you advise?

MRS. A: Ask your vet what's wrong with the poodle. If the vet says your dog is trained to the capacity of its intelligence, then by all means let your husband move into the garage with the poodle. They deserve each other.

DEAR ABBY: Do you think it is proper for a girl to wear shorts on a date? Most of my girl friends say they don't see anything wrong with it, but their mothers don't agree with them. My mother says she thinks it is okay on special occasions like an outdoor barbecue if it is a very hot night. I would like your opinion.

PATTI

DEAR PATTI: I agree with your mother. But it depends on the shorts. I have seen some short shorts that were not long enough to be worn in public.

DEAR ABBY: My husband, age 74, is a retired school teacher. Since his retirement he has had much time on his hands, and he uses it largely to carry on correspondences with numerous former pupils. Almost all of his correspondents are women. I have seen a few letters he has written to them. (He proudly shows them to me.) They are lengthy, flowery, and full of affection. He literally BEGS them to write to him. I am not jealous, heaven knows, after 50 years with him, because he has never shown a romantic interest in other women. However, I would like to know why he feels the need to write these long and affectionate letters to women. And why he takes such pleasure in their replies.

LONG-SUFFERING WIFE

DEAR WIFE: I doubt if your husband cares whether his correspondents are women or men as long as he gets letters. It's not surprising that most of his letters are from women, however. They are far more faithful letter writers.

DEAR ABBY: Why does the mother of the bride always cry at her daughter's wedding?

DEAR WONDERING: Maybe it's because they've heard that girls tend to marry men just like their fathers.

Problems? Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif. For a personal reply, enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Hate to write letters? Send one dollar to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif., for Abby's booklet, "HOW TO WRITE LETTERS FOR ALL OCCASIONS."

BE SMART—

The other evening we shocked Henrietta Rothblatt, a young teen-age friend, by informing her that bright red lipstick was on a revival kick. It goes with a "misty look": long, thick lashes, black liner and elongated brows, pink-touched cheeks.

IT'S COTTON

This Coat's At Home In Freezer Or Washer

By MARLENE GLASSFORD

Have you ever dreamed of owning a coat with all the earmarks of high-quality leather combined with durability and comfort of cotton?

Then it's time you had a heart-to-heart talk with Nancy Vickerson, a marketing assistant from the Canadian Cotton Council.

"How do you like my cotton coat?" she queried when she unexpectedly dropped by our office Wednesday afternoon.

"Cotton? That's leather isn't it?" we retorted.

"No. It really is cotton!" came the proud reply.

Miss Vickerson was here from Montreal to promote the terrific new fabric of which her coat was made.

It is actually a cotton sudeine with a special silicone finish that gives the leather look.

The finish is roller printed onto the fabric and is absolutely permanent for the life of the garment.

"Matter of fact," Miss Vickerson states, "the more you wear the garment, the more it gains the appearance of leather."

What's more, the roller patterns can be varied to give the appearance of every conceivable type of leather.

"But, what are its other qualities?" we asked.

INDESTRUCTIBLE

She explained, "Because it's cotton, it can be pressed on either side with a steam or ordinary iron. It is the only imitation leather that can be dry cleaned. It can be spot washed for daily wear, it will not mark or crack and is crease-resistant. What's more, it won't stiffen or break in extreme cold or hot weather."

To prove these points, Miss Vickerson has tried parking her coat in the freezer. She has also washed it, dry cleaned it, scuffed it and written on it with ball point ink.

The coat came through with flying colors. "Nothing happened to it. No matter what I did, it remained the same as before."

When did the fabric first appear on the market?

The first example was introduced last spring. It was developed first in Germany and then in Italy.

STARTED IN EUROPE

However, it was only four or five months ago that European manufacturers started producing it in coats and it did not appear in Canada until a recent fall-winter fashion showing in Montreal earlier this month.

Nancy recommends cotton to any one for all types of clothing.

"And," she assured me, "not only because I work for the council. I find that cotton is so absorbent that it has an affinity to color and finishes that most other fabrics don't have."

"For instance, I have a suit made of cotton upholstery fabric. It's ideal because it is stain resistant, crease resistant and perfect for all occasions."

Miss Vickerson has worked for the council "for about a year" and sums up her work as "a promoter for the sale of Canadian cotton on the Canadian market."

She left here today on the first lap of a journey that will take her to a number of major cities across the prairies before returning to eastern Canada.

Miss Nancy Vickerson models her new all-cotton, look-like-leather coat. It features lowered front flap pockets and long slim sleeves. It is made of Lethakin and lined in striped taffeta.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Women Weight Lifters Are Found in the Home

Few people, including women, realize how much lifting women do. They lift the baby or the little child. They lift the heavy box or bag of groceries, the ironing board, and the laundry basket. In a pinch they may even move some of the furniture about.

Back strain may result unless the woman knows how to lift and how not to lift a heavy object. Today you can get virtually all equipment on wheels. However, the woman with a family and a home to take care of is almost certain to do some lifting, and done the wrong way, it may give her prolonged discomfort.

When you are going to lift something heavy go into a deep knee bend. Be sure to keep your back straight and your hips under as you do so. Stand close to the object you are going to lift before bending the knees. Now reach forward with your hands and pull the object close to you before straightening your knees and lifting. Otherwise your back muscles must lift the weight of your trunk as well as that of the object you are lifting.

Often women suffer with backaches. Among the many causes are pulled ligaments or strained, sore muscles. Sometimes this is caused by occupations or activities to which your muscles have not been accustomed. Young mothers may experience back pains. The position of half bending over you assume when attending to a baby is a most unusual one. I cannot think of any other time when you spend hours in this partial forward bend.

Poor posture can cause your back to ache because it places strain on the muscles and ligaments. We should all try to remember to pull our abdomens in and tuck our hips under as we straighten the spine all the way, with special attention to the region through the neck.

Pope's Appointment Came As Shock to Frenchwoman

ROME (AP) — The first woman appointed by Pope Paul to sit in at the Vatican ecumenical council is a grey-haired motherly-looking spinster who never got past the fifth grade but whose brother became a famous French economist.

Maria Luisa Monnet is so gentle in appearance that you would automatically place her behind knitting needles.

But she assigns her secretary to the business of the day with the briskness and precision of a big business tycoon.

When Miss Monnet heard of the unique distinction that has fallen upon her, she was just one in the Sunday audience gathered in St. Peter's to hear an address by the pontiff.

"It came as a complete surprise to me," Miss Monnet confessed in an interview. "There I was praying and the Pope announced my appointment comme ça (just like that)."

"For a moment I thought I would faint, right there in front of everybody. But I pulled myself together and thanked God for the great honor bestowed on my simple person."

Miss Monnet's first act was to try to telephone her brother, Jean Monnet, the French economist who is a leader of European unity.

"I just couldn't reach him," she said. "I'm not sure where he is right now."

AGE NO SECRET

Since her appointment, Miss Monnet has not had a moment's rest—"and at my age rest be-

Offset Winter's Cold In Warm Orlon Pile

By PENNY SAVER

Having children clothed suitably for cold winter months is one of the main concerns of mothers. Today Penny shopped for the younger set (children up to eight years).

For petite misses (up to size 2x), I found a shop featuring little coats of soft orlon pile in pink, white, blue, and beige. An attached hood fastens with a pom-pom tie. These washable coats are lined with quilted satin and sell for $10.95.

To wear under them are white cotton leggings, selling at $2.98.

Other coats of the same material are in separate styles for boys and girls. Hand-embroidered flowers sprinkle the front of the coats for little flappers. They have self-fabric bonnets to match. These are $15.95. Boys' coats in blue and white feature "helmet" hats and are priced at $13.95.

Store also carries nylon and terylene jackets which are machine washable. They have a quilted lining and are in sizes 2 to 14. Orlon pile jackets from sizes 4 to 6x are in beige with a large brown diamond design or royal blue with white design. Handy for play, as they, too, are machine washable, jackets are still dressy enough for school.

For those cool, frosty days coming up, laminated ski pants are just the thing to keep little legs warm and dry. Made of stretch nylon, pants are machine washable and the bright tones are colorfast. Cherry reds and blues provide a good contrast to the orlon jackets. Pants are priced at $3.98.

Shop also has a good stock of waterproofed raincoats of nylon gabardine with orlon pile lining and peek-a-bow hoods. These are priced at $16.95. Others with a quilted lining sell at $13.95.

And, if your child outgrows one of these raincoats, cut the bottom, turn up the hem and you have a car-coat!

If you are interested in these fall clothes for your children, call Penny at 382-3131.

This is one of the most treasured pictures in Mrs. Holt's collection. It shows her with her daughter and grandson. The picture was taken as a memento of David's first Sunday as a choir boy at Christ Church Cathedral.

SINGING TRINITY

Here's One Choir Boy That Daren't Skylark

By PAT DUFOUR

David Marrion is probably the best behaved choir boy in Christ Church Cathedral. What 11-year-old boy soprano wouldn't be, when he knows that his mother and grandmother are also in the choir stalls, keeping an eye on him?

Matriarch of this singing dynasty is Mrs. Clarence Holt. Remaining member is David's mother, Mrs. William Marrion.

Mrs. Holt insists that their supervision of David is dealt with a light hand.

"But now and again, when he's just going through the motions we open our mouths wide so as to give him the hint to start working at it!"

FIRST GROUP

Mrs. Marrion, now an alto like her mother, joined the cathedral choir in 1943, being one of the first group of sopranos introduced into the predominantly male gathering by the late Archie Miller.

Her mother's career spans more than half a century. She proudly tells you, "I had my first choir card in 1908."

This was in the English county of Kent and she still has a delightful accent that hints of her "old country" ancestry.

In addition to singing in the Congregational Church in the village of Dartford, Elizabeth Holt sang at many a concert in the Crystal Palace and other concert halls.

And, the snowy surprise of a choir singer is not the only uniform she's worn.

KHAKI UNIFORM

Her eyes light up when she tells you of the days when she wore a khaki uniform.

"I joined the Women's Army Auxiliary Corps during the First World War and went to France with the army's postal service."

"Those were the days! When we were stationed in Rouen, some of us girls would get together with the boys from the censor office."

"What concerts we'd put on at the YMCA buildings! The professional baritone, Marziari—we used to call him Marzipan—used to organize the programs. It was a thrill to work with him."

It was at Rouen that she met her husband, who was serving with the Canadian army postal service.

Now, although she readily admits to being 72 next December, Mrs. Holt still relays the same drive she must have had during those action-filled war days.

When not practising with the choir or making her home on Southgate Street sparkle with "elbow grease," she's busy with needle and thread keeping the choir's gowns in good order. She's been robes mistress for six years.

WON'T WARBLE

Clarence Holt, although a lover of music, cannot be persuaded to join the family choral group.

The Holts' other daughter, Norma also resists the temptation. Says her mother, "She always jokes and says she was behind the door when voices were given out!"

But the singing trio do not have to enjoy their music alone. Mr. Holt loves to join in on a piano or his guitar.

And no one is prouder than he is when he stands to see the rest of the family, singing the processional hymn on the way to the choir stalls on Sunday morning.

Rev. Scott Hears Marriage Vows Exchanged At Recent Ceremony In St. Andrew's Church

St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church was decorated with standards of gladioli and chrysanthemums when Rev. C. A. Scott heard marriage vows unit-

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. F. T. G. Simmons, 2184 Epworth Street, and Mrs. H. E. Jobbins, 252 Wildwood Avenue, and the late Mr. Jobbins. Organist was Ken Peaker.

The bride wore a floor-length courtier designed gown of white delustrated satin accented with hand-embroidered Guipure lace. Bodice was styled with portrait neckline and lily point sleeves and the A-line skirt was slim in front with back fullness caught with a sweetheart bow at waistline.

Her three-tier scalloped net veil pouffed from a pearl and crystal coronet and she carried a bouquet of pink Rapture roses. She was given in marriage by her father.

Matron of honor, Mrs. Jack Nelson, sister of the groom, and bridesmaids, the Misses Sandra Mackenzie and Anne Simmons, sister of the bride, wore identical floor-length gowns of pink candy crystal charm with pink veiled wedding ring head-pieces. Their only jewelry was single-strand pearl necklaces, gifts of the bride, and they carried bouquets of pastel carnations.

Jack Nelson was best man for his brother-in-law and guests were ushered by William Leach, Calgary, Alta., and Gerald Ken-

The bride's going-away outfit was a cream beige wool suit with brown accessories and corsage of autumn-toned tiny chrysanthemums.

LETHAL WEAPONS SEIZED IN SURPRISE CELL CHECK

OTTAWA (UPI) — Harold Edward Winch, the 57-year-old New Democrat from Vancouver East, has long been dedicated to improving conditions in Canadian penitentiaries for both prisoners, who live there, and guards, who make sure they stay there.

He recently returned from a tour of the British Columbia Penitentiary at New Westminster, B.C., and brought with him seven hand-fashioned objects, made in the penitentiary, that could only be termed lethal weapons.

RAZOR SHARP

Five were knives, ranging in size from one with a five-inch blade made from a file to one somewhat larger than a butcher knife. All were razor sharp.

One was a pistol fashioned from the spotlight of a car and the other was a vicious-looking stabbing device made from a toilet plunger.

All were seized during a surprise inmate check at the penitentiary. Winch has them mounted in a tiny wooden case in his Commons office.

"This is an example of what a penitentiary guard, if he is mingling with the inmates, is always facing," he said, thrusting the pistol forward. "Would you argue with this if you were receiving the kind of money they get?"

"The money is one of the most disgraceful episodes of federal payment to persons in responsibility that I have ever seen," said the 11-year Commons veteran and former B.C. opposition leader.

"A guard has to pass the same academic and physical qualifications as a police officer," he said. "Yet a top-notch guard after four years receives $75-$100 less than a four-year police officer who receives about $500 a month. "A guard makes $302.50 a month to start."

FACING UNKNOWN

Winch, who had planned to use his weapons "display" as ammunition during the House debates on justice department estimates, said a guard is facing the unknown "from a few irresponsible, psychopathic persons continuously during his eight hours of duty."

"Just one week before I visited the B.C. penitentiary, a guard was viciously slashed from the elbow to the hand.

"And this (the five-inch blade knife) is almost identical to the knife that was held at the throat of a guard for 14 hours last year. He couldn't move. He is married with a family and yet he receives less than $400 a month."

OVERCROWDING

The volatile New Democrat also is challenging Prime Minister Pearson's government to ease overcrowding and improve medical services in prisons.

"The overcrowding is such at the B.C. penitentiary that they had to put up heavy wire gratings in cell blocks to turn a corridor into a dormitory. During the three days I visited there, they had 712 men in a prison designed to hold 450."

"Inside the 12 months there has to be a completely new approach. I want to see the establishment of a forensic clinic so the emotionally and psychiatrically disturbed can be removed to this clinic under maximum security with medical treatment.

"This applies in particular to psychiatric sex offenders. From my discussions with psychiatrists employed part-time in penal institutions, I think there must not be less than three full-time psychiatrists employed in penitentiaries.

"I have been told there if there was a sufficiency of full-time psychiatrists, they would guarantee that between 50 and 60 per cent of the problem cases, basically sex and narcotics, would never again return to the penitentiary."

Dangerous Driver Loses His Licence

Joseph Kolodychuk, HMCS Naden, was fined $100 and lost his licence in city court Wednesday when he pleaded guilty to dangerous driving.

Evidence showed Kolodychuk drove between 45 and 50 mph along Douglas Street in heavy traffic Tuesday night. When tested on a breathalyzer he had a blood alcohol count of .13 per cent.

WHO INVITED HIM?

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Salt Lake City Mayor J. Bracken Lee has expressed surprise that the city library board invited "a man of such liberal leanings" as John Kenneth Galbraith to make a speech.

The board invited the former ambassador to India to speak when the new city library is dedicated Oct. 30.

If Galbraith shows up, Lee said in a letter to the library board, "I might take advantage at the dedication of my right to express my opinion in such a manner that would not only be embarrassing to Mr. Galbraith, but to everyone present."

Lee is on record in favor of abolishing the income tax and ending U.S. participation in the United Nations.

'Good Place To Start' —Saunders

VANCOUVER (CP) — Government announcement of measures to ensure Canadian ownership and control of financial institutions and banks brought favorable comment here Wednesday.

Peter Paul Saunders, head of the Laurentide Financial Corporation and president of the proposed Laurentide Bank of Canada, said ownership of Canadian corporations by Canadian investors is desirable and that financial institutions is a good place to start.

Financial institutions have the power to control growth, he said, and should be controlled in Canada.

"Other countries, such as Japan, have legislation to keep control in domestic hands."

ENOUGH SAVING?

He said the problem in Canada is whether there is sufficient domestic saving to finance development.

Ernest Drake of C. M. Oliver and Company Limited said bank stocks are all higher on the Vancouver Exchange than at Tuesday's close, as are those of finance companies.

"The overall picture looks very encouraging," he said. Mr. Drake said he expects there will be a lower supply of good stocks available as a result of the broadening of financial institutions' base to invest in common stocks.

ARGENTINE LEADER:

Communists Slip In Latin America

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — Argentine President Arturo Illia, who marks his first anniversary in office Oct. 12, believes the threat of communism and political instability in Latin America is declining steadily.

"There is absolutely no doubt that communism has lost much of its appeal in this hemisphere," Illia, 63, said in an interview.

"It is declining and it will continue to decline."

But Illia warned that some parts of Latin America remain "propitious ground" for insurrection, primarily because of the poor distribution of wealth.

"We must seek to remove such threats by working for a better distribution of resources," he said. "In this way we shall remove the appeal of those who call for insurrection."

MORE UNITY

Illia said the decision of all American republics except Mexico to break diplomatic relations with the Communist regime in Cuba was a token of the increasing unity in the hemisphere.

The president said unity also has increased among the Argentine people, who have seen much political instability during the last 20 years.

In an apparent reference to reports that former dictator Juan D. Peron might try to return to Argentina from exile in Spain, Illia declared:

"Be assured that the basic principles on which the future of Argentina rests cannot be endangered by any man, whoever he may be."

Refugees Share $6.5 Million Compensation

GENEVA (Reuters)—Some 12,000 refugees throughout the world persecuted by Nazi Germany will share about $6,500,000 compensation to be paid out by Christmas, its was announced here Wednesday.

This will be the third and final distribution from a total fund of $12,500,000 which the West German government put at the disposal of the United Nations high commissioner for refugees under an agreement concluded in October, 1960.

Censure Vote Beaten

CANBERRA (Reuters)—The Australian government today defeated by a vote of 69 to 63 an opposition motion of censure over "the succession of naval disasters and misfortunes" in the last six years. The opposition blamed the government for seven naval mishaps since July, 1958.

LOST A PIPE CLEANER? You may have, but B.C. Hydro could hardly lose its giant cleaner, brought to Victoria for the first time this month to clean a 12-inch gas main along Store Street from Fort to Pembroke. They are more likely to lose people than the cleaner, as this giant vacuum sucks up all the debris from a block-long pipe. The vacuum works in conjunction with a long steel cutting rod which first scrapes off the impurities. And there must have been plenty, this was the first time for the pipe to be cleaned in 50 years.

'Family Reasons' Can Breach Wall

BERLIN (Reuters)—The Berlin wall will open again in four weeks' time for West Berliners to visit relatives in East Berlin following the signing of the second passes agreement in East Berlin today.

All obstacles having been removed on both sides in eight months of negotiations, West Berlin negotiator Horst Korber visited his East German counterpart, State Secretary Erich Wendt, today to sign 25 pages of documents fixing details for four periods of visits between next month and Pentecost, 1965.

West German Chancellor Ludwig Erhard Wednesday wrote to West Berlin's governing Mayor Willy Brandt, giving his government's consent to the agreement.

Under the new agreement, one parents, children, grandparents, brothers or sisters, uncles or aunts, nephews and nieces, husbands and wives, for two weeks in late October and early November, at Easter and Pentecost 1965, and two visits over the Christmas and New Year period.

The family reasons for which passes are to be available for visits to East Berlin all year round include marriages, births, illnesses and funerals.

Four-week visits to West Germany and West Berlin of East Germans of pensionable age, which the East German government has granted as a unilateral measure independent of the passes agreement, also begin in November.

Borrowing Hike For Loan Firms

OTTAWA (CP)—New borrowing powers that could aid the trust and loan companies in competing with the banks to attract the public's savings are included in the government's financial legislation introduced in the Commons Wednesday.

These companies would be empowered by the bill to borrow from the public amounts to 15 times their paid-up capital and reserves. The present limit is 12½ times, unchanged since 1958 when it was raised from 10 times.

This means that for every $1 in capital and reserves, these so-called "near banks" would be able to borrow $15 instead of the present $12.50 from the public by accepting deposits, selling their debentures or selling guaranteed investment certificates.

RETAIN EARNINGS

Officials here explained that some of the companies have been crowding the present limit. When that happens, the only way they can expand is by retaining their earnings as reserves or by selling additional shares, as several have done in recent months.

The new legislation takes account of some joint ownership among trust and mortgage loan companies by applying the new borrowing limit to the consolidated position of any two of them.

ASSETS COULD SHRINK

Basically, the limit is designed to protect those who lend money to these institutions, by trying to ensure that their assets will always be worth enough to meet their liabilities to the public.

Officials here calculate that under the present limit, assets could shrink by 7.4 per cent in value before there would be any shortfall. They said the new

Life Never Bore, Projects Galore

Jaycee vice-president Ray Farmer continues the series on Jaycee activities. Married, with four sons and one daughter, he has been with the Victoria group since 1958. At 30, in addition to serving as chairman on several committees, he has also been awarded one of Jaycees' highest honors, a senatorship. Employed at Yarrows Ltd., he is also president of Northridge Community Association.

By RAY FARMER

As vice-president of Victoria Jaycees it is my responsibility to oversee three commissions, house, leadership, and education, youth and traffic safety.

The house committee job is to make all arrangements for dinner meetings held every other Wednesday at the Club Soho.

Some annual events include Jaycee picnic, fishing derby, golf tournament, bosses' night, president's ball and installation, a New Year's dance, and Christmas party.

Bosses' night is usually held in October, each Jaycee inviting his boss to a dinner meeting. This meeting is designed to give the employer an opportunity to see what his employee is doing in Jaycees and the benefits Jaycees offer to make him more valuable to his employer.

The leadership training committee's function is to have a complete program of training for membership. We have one of the finest training courses in Victoria, the Frank Paulding Effective Speaking Course.

There are two classes each year, in the fall and in spring.

We also hold an oratorical contest each year within our membership. Winners of this contest compete on the district, provincial and national levels. Twice, members have won the national award and several have won the district and provincial level.

We also put on a business seminar.

This is a public forum for local businessmen in guidance in the field of executive management. For members we have many other programs such as S.P.O.K.E. awards, table topics and parliamentary procedure. Plus a College of Knowledge to acquaint them with the Jaycee movement.

The education and youth development and traffic safety committee promotes traffic safety and helps educate young people to work and compete together.

Our first project this year was sponsoring of the first mobile car testing unit in this area. Following this we have traffic safety week and a traffic safety forum held at Oak Bay High School.

Later in the year there is a Christmas party for welfare children.

Each Jaycee picks up two or three children, takes them clothes and presents, and gives them entertainment and candy.

We also have our Christmas ship. This takes clothes and candy to Indian reserves on the Gulf Islands. This project was done last year for the first time and was well received.

We have two rodeos each year, the teen-age rodeo and the daffodil rodeo.

The daffodil rodeo, for sports cars, was held for the first time last year. We are planning to make it an annual event.

In the planning stage is an Easter bike race, and our annual Easter rounds. We also plan a speaking contest in schools.

All these projects are done by Jaycees.

Without this voluntary help we could not carry out these very important projects. All projects are very rewarding and it is only through the efforts of Junior Chamber that young men in Victoria have the opportunity to serve their community by participating in these projects.

Clean Win, Filthy Ticket

METZ, France. (UPI)—M. Viol threw away his three franc (60 cent) betting ticket in disgust Sunday night when he thought his horse hadn't won.

On Monday morning when he learned that the ticket had won 13,902 francs and 60 centime ($2,789.50), he raced to the garbage can. It had just been emptied.

He rushed to the dump, sorting through the debris with his fingers, while friends came to his aid.

Tuesday he came upon the filthy ticket and collected his winnings.

Mungo's Paintings Win Praise

Master carver Mungo Martin, the great Kwakiutl chief of Nakwaka, is best remembered for his totem poles, but he also left behind a wealth of Indian paintings.

Writing in The Beaver magazine, Audrey Hawthorne, curator of the museum of anthropology at the University of British Columbia, says the paintings are representative of Mungo's wish to communicate, to those of the white community who were interested, some facets of Kwakiutl life and tradition.

"The special significance of Mungo's paintings is in the vigor and vitality of this traditional painting, and in the range of mythological creatures which he had depicted," she writes.

Laing Backs China Trade

HARRISON HOT SPRINGS (UP)—Northern Affairs Minister Arthur Laing Wednesday advocated increased trade with Communist countries, particularly Communist China.

Laing told the Pacific Coast Association of Port Authorities that "we've got to look beyond the markets of the western nations and get more goods into the Communist camp."

"Building such trade will aid

all nations in our great Pacific family," he added.

The minister pointed out part of the wheat deal with Communist China was that Canada take $7.5 million worth of manufactured goods.

Laing asked American delegates to the meeting to pass his message along to the U.S. government.

He called it "building more bridges to the rest of the Pacific nations."

On the subject of the trade imbalance between the U.S. and Canada, Laing said despite the situation favoring the Americans, the export picture is the brightest in years.

He said exports for the period from January to June were up 22 per cent over the same period in 1963.

The minister said, "Our government believes we are all on the threshold of far greater exports."

WHAT WAS IN PACKAGE?

Coffin Case Lawyer Refuses to Answer

QUEBEC (CP)—What has become a key question in the Coffin case remained unanswered Wednesday night as a lawyer stood on professional secrecy despite a plea by Mr. Justice Roger Brossard for an answer "in the public interest."

Raymond Maher, 43, a defense lawyer for Wilbert Coffin at his Gaspé trial 10 years ago, refused to tell the royal commission looking into the case what was in a package he took from Coffin's camp after consulting his client Aug. 27, 1953.

Lawrence Corriveau, counsel to Mr. Maher, argued that Mr. Maher might have to answer to the bar association if forced to divulge the contents of the package.

Mr. Corriveau said the story of the mysterious package was based "on rumor that wouldn't be accepted in any court in the land."

Mr. Justice Brossard, before asking Mr. Maher to divulge the contents, recapped earlier testimony by Judge Albert Dumontier and Henri Doyon, former Quebec Provincial Police sergeant. They had said that Roland Mercier, another former sergeant with the QPP, had quoted Mr. Maher as saying he had thrown the Coffin rifle from the Quebec Bridge.

HANGED FOR MURDER

Coffin was hanged in 1956 for the murder of one of three Pennsylvania hunters found dead on the Gaspé Peninsula in 1953.

Montreal publisher Jacques Hébert, in his book J'Accuse les Assassins de Coffin (I Accuse the Assassins of Coffin), theorized that Capt. J. A. Matte, who headed the original investigation, had delayed the search for the rifle.

Mr. Hébert further theorized that Mr. Maher fell into the trap by going after the weapon, which he said would have proved Coffin innocent.

Both Mr. Maher and Francois Gravel, a Coffin lawyer, stood on privilege where the package was concerned.

The commission now has heard more than 200 witnesses and taken 18,000 pages of testimony.

High Altitude Infra-Red Cameras Boon to Forest Fire Protection

WENATCHEE, Wash. (AP)—High-altitude infra-red cameras are developing into the best stamp-out-forest-fires aide since Smokey the Bear learned to talk.

Photos chart a fire from 10,000 feet. Then polaroid-processed film is dropped to ground workers. In a recent Chelan County blaze, infra-red pictures indicated 150, not the estimated 100, men were needed.

The 150 barely held the line. From on high, a forest fire, captured by infra-red rays, may look like a patch of cauliflower or scattered feathers of a goose-down pillow.

But to the United States Forest Service, the infra-red photos are a boon. Nothing obstructs their view—neither the darkest night nor the thickest smoke.

The air pictures are taken with a device conceived by the military called fire scan.

The process, made simple, is that heat travels in various color waves, depending on temperature. Forest fires usually range in the 800 to 1,600-degree, or infra-red bracket. The camera operates as a television set.

Of course, there still are some kinks to smoke out. For one, solar rays often distort the pictures or poorly define the fires. For another, the TV images are considered inferior to direct viewing, via the camera.

And it is time-consuming to take the airborne images and manually co-ordinate them with ground maps. The forest service says a computer may be the answer.

But the foresters are optimistic. Soon, they hope, a fire scan will be used universally by fire-fighters.

BRIDGE LESSON
By OSWALD JACOBY
There are two times when it is imperative to double a freely bid game. One is when you can see the contract all by yourself. The other is when your opponents appear to have been overbidding misfit cards and you see a potential fit profit.

West's double was of this second type. They might make three no-trump against him, but it seemed far more likely that his partner would have the spades well stopped and a juicy penalty would ensue. West was right. South probably should not have bid two no-trump. His three no-trump call was sheer give-away.

Having overbid the hand, South proceeded to underplay it. He won the first club with the ace and played ace, king and a small heart. West was in with the ten and promptly cashed three club tricks. South discarded a diamond on the last club. West shifted to his singleton spade. South finessed the queen and East was in with the king. He returned the jack of diamonds, whereupon South could make but one more trick and was down five.

Strangely enough, South ignored his own misbids and misplays and jumped on North for not going on to four spades—a contract that would only set two tricks.

North retorted crushingly, "I was afraid to bid four spades, you might have gone on to four no-trump."

'Net' Out To Catch Molester

RCMP have sealed off the Sooke area in their hunt for a man sought in connection with the molesting of a 15-year-old girl Saturday.

Roadblocks have been set up at key points in the area, with the co-operation of police officers from the Colwood and Victoria RCMP detachments.

Police are convinced the man is still in the area, and think he was spotted Tuesday night.

A man answering the description of the molester tried to buy food at an East Sooke house, saying he was a lost hunter.

He was invited into the house of former city police inspector Peris Atkinson, and given a meal.

DOG CALLED

After he left, the family realized who he might have been, and a tracking dog was called in.

If followed a strong scent for nearly two miles through dense brush before losing the trail.

Officers searched all cabins and houses in East Sooke on Wednesday for signs of the hunted man.

"We're confident he'll have to come out of the bush soon," said an RCMP officer this morning.

"We have a good description, and everyone in the area is alerted for him now."

The man is described as about five feet nine, 160 pounds, with dark curly hair and a protruding left eye.

He will have a three or four-day growth of beard, and is wearing olive drab coveralls and logging boots.

The hunt started after a 15-year-old girl told Sooke RCMP about going to an East Sooke house with her parents and some relatives, and being molested.

She went in answer to an advertisement, and reported she was molested outside the house while her parents were inside.

Attempted Murder Charge Remanded

Two men charged with attempted murder were given another week's remand without plea when they appeared in city police court Wednesday.

Rodney Leason, 1300 Gladstone, and Gary McWhirter of Sooke were arrested Sept. 10 after a man was savagely beaten with beer bottles in dense bush near Prospect Lake.

David Angus, Liquorist.

Boy Found On Rails Has Legs Amputated

SALISBURY, England (Reuters)—Stephen Hargreaves, 17-year-old schoolboy found near a railway line with both feet severed, has had both legs amputated below the knee.

This was disclosed today by a spokesman of the Salisbury Hospital where the boy was taken. He was picked up Wednesday by road laborers, who heard him call out "Help me, help me; They tied me up."

Stephen was found gagged and bound with rope. He had been missing since Monday night.

With both his feet cut off—it

Ford Holds Prices On New 1965 Models

DETROIT (AP)—Ford Motor Company today became the second member of the U.S. automotive big-three to hold the basic price line on its 1965 cars.

Chrysler Corporation was expected to make a similar disclosure.

General Motors, biggest of the auto makers, said Wednesday it would hold the price line. Ford had said earlier that its highest priced car, the Lincoln Continental, also would hold the line.

In general, while basic car prices remain the same for the sixth consecutive year, there were some minor adjustments in prices of accessories and optional equipment.

North American Way Of Life Threatened

TWO HEARTS DIDN'T HIDE OLD BILL

ASCOT, England (AP)—"I say," said the detective to the man in the street, "that's my wife's nightdress you're wearing."

And so it was. A comely creation in pink see-through nylon with two hearts embroidered on the bosom.

Detective Constable Roy Ryman testified that his wife had told him it was stolen from her clothesline that morning but at first he thought it must have blown away.

Then he said, he found 50-year-old William Hawksmith wearing it in Ascot's main street.

Hawksmith, pleading guilty to theft, was jailed for six months.

VANCOUVER (CP)—A former

United Nations health officer says food shortages in Asia could trigger a war or a mass immigration to North America.

Dr. Lewis Anderson, now a health night director, said Tuesday night the North American way of life could be wiped out in five to 10 years unless something was done to solve food problems in other parts of the world.

"I think we would be crazy to assume that half a billion people are going to die quietly of starvation, in India for example, if they know food is here," he said.

ONLY YEAR?

Dr. Anderson was speaking at a meeting to raise funds for a food preservation training school in Mysore, India.

In an interview later he said either war over food or migration for food would mean an end to the North American way of life.

"I think it will take perhaps five to 10 years—but I could be wrong," he said.

"It might take only one year."

Killer of Policeman Granted New Stay

OTTAWA (CP)—Georges Marcotte, 32-year-old convicted killer of a St. Laurent, Que., policeman, has been granted a third stay of execution to enable him to make a new appeal to the Supreme Court of Canada.

He had been scheduled to be hanged early Friday.

Yves Mayrand, defence counsel for Marcotte, filed notice of the appeal with the Supreme Court early Wednesday against a judgement of the Quebec Court of Appeal given Sept. 17.

Marcotte was found guilty of capital murder in March, 1963, in the so-called Santa Claus bank holdup in St. Laurent in December, 1962, in which two police constables were machine-gunned to death. He lost appeals in the Quebec Court of Appeal and in the Supreme Court of Canada.

THE CHANGING FACE OF CHINA

'If You Smile, They Smile Back'

By BRUCE LEVETT

VANCOUVER (CP)—The coolies have gone from the waterfront of China and the beggars have left her streets.

Her women may be growing more style-conscious and her businessmen are becoming less wary in their dealings with westerners.

But it's still a land where the foreigner gets 65-per-cent discount, while the natives pay top dollar for the goods they produce.

Capt. John Lewis, 33, from Milford-Haven in Wales, is master of the converted oil tanker Stanceland and he has been sailing to China for 10 years.

The most notable change he has seen in that time is the gradual relaxation of once-rigid restrictions governing the movement of foreigners.

However, while he finds it easier to get around in Communist China today, there are few places to go and little to do.

He spoke of China just before Stanceland, heavy with 750,000 bushels of grain, cleared here Sept. 10. Capt. Lewis spoke of the changes he has seen since he first shipped to China in 1953 as an apprentice on a ship carrying fertilizer to Tsintao.

DELIVERS GRAIN

Today he is master of one of the hundreds of vessels of the registries of the world—except those of Japan and the United States—which have carried 6,500,000 tons of grain worth $500,000,000 to China since early 1961.

These ships are chartered by agents of the Chinese government operating through the Baltic Exchange in London.

Stanceland and her crew can be considered typical. There are 31 Britons and 12 Spaniards aboard. They're proud of their soccer team which plays other shipboard teams while waiting to load in Vancouver, Victoria, Prince Rupert or New Westminster.

They play them again while discharging cargo in Shanghai or Dairen.

In the last 10 years "there hasn't been a great deal of change with regard to the Chinese," Capt. Lewis says.

"The great change has come in the easing of regulations. The regulations—such as the one stating you have to be back on board by midnight—are still on the books. But they're not enforced as rigidly as they once were."

NO COOLIES NOW

You can carry your camera in China today, provided you don't photograph within city limits or take pictures of military installations. And provided you have your film processed before leaving the country.

"As long as you comply with their regulations and don't cause them any bother, the authorities won't cause you any."

Where Stanceland ties up, there are no coolies in evidence. "Now they're called workers and they get a wage—about $40 a month. They reckon that's enough to feed a family of four and have a little left over."

Chinese women still work in the sheds and along the docks, but they don't carry heavy loads about the ships anymore, although they still toil aboard the freelance sampans and lighters.

In Dairen, his last port in China, Capt. Lewis saw converted stores with five or six beds to a room.

"They've always lived 15 or 20 to a room and I guess they still live that way."

In Shanghai he saw a sign of a changing China—a "woman's beauty shop."

"It wasn't anything like what you have here or in the United States, but it was an indication. The women seem to be becoming more style-conscious. Once it was hard to tell the women from the men; they all wore trousers and denim shirts."

"Now the women, at least some of them, are wearing their hair swept back and they are taking to dresses and skirts."

Shanghai and Dairen are still "dull cities with little to do there." However, "now the skyline in Shanghai is lit up a bit more than it was."

In Shanghai or Dairen there are only two places for Capt. Lewis and his men to go—the seamen's club and the Friendship Department Store.

"Things are getting better. In the last year the percentage of discount allowed foreigners in the Friendship store came up to 65 per cent on anything to be taken out of the country."

"The idea is, if you can get it cheaply you'll buy it and take it abroad and show off the goods of China."

He has bought "coffee tables, beautifully carved, and camphor-wood chests and dress goods."

SHOES COST LITTLE

On his last trip to China he paid $6 for "a good pair of shoes."

But for the Chinese, the prices are "on a par with prices here."

The $6 shoes would have cost the $40 - a month waterfront worker $15.

"Still, the coolies are not as hungry as they used to be."

The ports of China are "far more mechanized" than they were 10 years ago.

"Back in 1961 the grain ships used their own gear to unload in China. When an order was filled, the ships would sell the gear to the Chinese. Now the main ports have all their own facilities and these facilities are being improved all the time."

"In 1961 it took us 21 days to discharge cargo. On our last trip we turned around in seven days."

Once "we could get no radar or wireless repair done." Ship repair was limited."

Now ship chandlers come aboard with lists of prices competitive with those charged across the world.

"The businessmen, those I deal with, talk more freely these days. Once they were very cautious."

HAMLET

Odeon Theatre

The magic of Shakespeare's words—their justice, significance and almost ethereal beauty—are far more important to me than Electronovision; and the fact we were watching an actual performance of Hamlet, electronically photographed in a Broadway theatre, seemed very secondary to the play itself.

His plays are perhaps always greater than the individuals who present them, and the music of Shakespeare's verse seems to bring the experience of his characters into kinship with the experience of all men.

Certainly there is something of Hamlet, Prince of Denmark, in all of us. And the story itself contains enough murder, anger, cruelty, incest, passion and intrigue to satisfy even a British Sunday newspaper editor.

Yet I was disappointed that the characters did not wear the costume of the period. The women were graceful enough in sweeping floor-length dresses, which could have belonged to the 1900-14 period; the men in slacks and open-neck shirts looked just about ready for an afternoon on the golf course.

This may be the new style in Shakespeare, but it seemed rather incongruous that they should be wearing casual modern clothes while handling such old-fashioned weapons as cross-handled swords!

Within this limitation, the play is admirably performed and spoken by Richard Burton, Hume Cronyn, Alfred Drake, Eileen Herlie and other celebs.

rities of the Shakespearian stage.

And there is a thrill in the thought that the same performance is being seen in 1,000 theatres all over Canada and the U.S. through the magic of... no I won't say it.

Instead of a road tour which would have taken several years, the benevolent Warner Brothers photographed the actual Broadway play with 15 electronic cameras requiring no more than the normal on-stage lights. Then they made a thousand copies of the film so we could all see it on Wednesday and today at afternoon and evening performances.

True, the stage seems a little dark but the atmosphere comes across. It is just 12 years since I set foot in London's famous Old Vic to watch Claire Bloom in Romeo and Juliet, and I felt something of the excitement of that occasion.

Students from St. Ann's Academy and boys of the University School were in the crowded audience and while the play may have seemed a little drab compared with today's technicolored extravaganzas, they must have felt the power of Shakespeare's words, timed to a fraction and delivered in clear and forceful diction.

Richard Burton's Hamlet is worthy of a character who has been analyzed and argued about for several centuries. He inherits the virtues of a score of his predecessors and some of their weaknesses, yet is no mere recapitulation of them.

He has something of the passion of Romeo, the dash of Hotspur, the tenderness and friendship of Antonio, the wit and wisdom of Falstaff, the meditative-melancholy of Jaques, the idealism of Brutus—and a little of the cynical irony of Richard III.

Alfred Drake is magnificent as Claudius.

Hume Cronyn, William Redfield and George Rose are equally good in their way and the general standard of acting is so high you almost—but not quite—forget their modern attire.

But again, it is the words which count and Hamlet is a reminder that some of our finest quotations come from it—"To thine own self be true," "There's a divinity which shapes our ends," "The slings and arrows of outrageous fortune," "sicklied o'er with the pale cast of thought," "glass of fashion, mould of form," "perchance to dream."

There's nothing like it in any language.

SERIOUSLY ILL with heart ailment is Mahalia Jackson who introduced gospel singing to millions around the world. Miss Jackson, 50, was taken to hospital Sept. 15 in Chicago with what doctors then described as exhaustion due to overwork.

Nuclear Arms Bank Near Full

By DAVE McINTOSH
OTTAWA (CP)—The government is three quarters of the way toward fulfillment of its promise to arm four Canadian weapons systems with nuclear warheads.

Officials said Wednesday American nuclear armament has been provided for the Honest John artillery rocket, one of the weapons in the arsenal of Canada's 6300-man motorized infantry brigade in West Germany.

The Honest John packs the biggest nuclear punch of any Canadian weapon: 100 kilotons, the equivalent of 100,000 tons of TNT. This is five times bigger than the 1945 Hiroshima atomic bomb. The Honest John has a range of some 20 miles.

The Honest John warhead is nearly twice as big as the nuclear bombs carried by six squadrons of RCAF CF-104 low-level jet bombers stationed in West Germany.

Snap Up 20 Tons Of Sculpture

Victorians who are art fans as well as photography addicts will have an opportunity to indulge both these interests Saturday, Oct. 3.

There is only one catch. They will have to make a quick trip to Seattle.

Director of the Seattle Art Museum, Dr. Richard E. Fuller, has announced that the "Ancient Sculpture From India" exhibit, at the Seattle Art Museum Pavilion in Seattle Centre, will be open to photographers from noon until 9 p.m.

On Oct. 3 only, tripods and protected flashbulbs will be permitted in the pavilion.

Art buffs, even those who do not own a camera should find the 20-ton exhibit interesting. It covers 4,000 years of Indian art from around 2,500 B.C.

Unfortunately, the exhibit will not be available for display in Victoria, at least not in the foreseeable future.

Admission to the Seattle Pavilion is $1.

GUARD KNIFED TO DEATH IN MARITIMES

DORCHESTER, N.B. (CP)—Edwin James Masterton, 49, a guard at the Maritime Penitentiary here, was stabbed to death Wednesday night in the prison's exercise yard.

Warden Hazen Smith said today the incident appeared to be "an isolated case" with no related "commotion or melee" and there was no attempt to escape.

RCMP were "following up several leads" and continuing interrogation of inmates.

DR. SHRUM:

Russia Will Never Catch Up

Russia will never catch up with the United States by the 1980s, Dr. Gordon Shrum said Wednesday.

"It would be ridiculous for anyone to believe that they can," said Dr. Shrum, chancellor of the new Simon Fraser University and co-chairman of B.C. Hydro.

Speaking to Victoria Jaycees, he said: "Everything in Russia is compared to 1913. All the time people are saying what great advances have been made since that date.

"They don't seem to realize, the rest of the world has also come ahead since that time.

He described Russian experiments in political science, economy and socialization over the past 50 years as neither a success nor a failure.

Illustrating his talk with color photographs taken while in the country with a Canadian group representing $30 billion worth of industry this May, he said.

"Don't get the Russians wrong though. They are not a poor lot of peasants who are starving and dressed in rags.

"I found them pretty much the same as you and I."

The average Russian even has advantages over Canadians.

He pays $5-a-month for a state-owned apartment and is paid around $300 in a state-owned job.

In addition, all the women work and are paid the same as men.

"It is amazing," said Dr. Shrum. "Just about 100 per cent of industry and businesses in Moscow are state-owned—even boot blacks are working for the state."

Of the people, he said: "They all seemed very well disciplined. Perhaps that's because the Russians still require a lot of workers in Siberia."

He said the only place where the party had not been allowed to take pictures was in atomic energy plants.

At the same meeting, eight new Jaycees were inducted by president Don Paulin.

Fishermen Second Best To Farmers?

OTTAWA (UPI) — The fisheries department Wednesday was portrayed as "the Cinderella" of the government with Prime Minister Pearson acting more like "the stepmother . . . than in the capacity of Prince Charming."

Tom Barnett (NDP—Comox-Alberni) used the metaphor during debate on the estimates of the fisheries department which were tabled in the House of Commons Wednesday afternoon. Barnett claimed that the "sister" department to fisheries—agriculture—was getting priority from the government leaving the Canadian fisherman without a development program.

Fisheries Minister Robichaud gave a lengthy outline of a number of programs which his department would implement, including an "eat fish" program. The minister said the object will be to get Canadians eating more fish "in the home, in restaurants and in institutions."

This would be done through lectures, demonstrations, films and the distribution of the highly successful "Canadian fish cook book."

UBC Honor For Former Victorian

A former Victorian, Dr. H. Rocke Robertson, will receive an honorary degree at the University of British Columbia's fall congregation Oct. 30 along with noted historian Hugh R. Trevor-Roper of Oxford University.

The degree of doctor of science will be conferred on Dr. Robertson, former professor and head of the department of surgery in UBC's medical faculty, and principal and vice-chancellor of McGill University since 1962.

Mr. Trevor-Roper will receive an honorary doctor of laws and give the congregation address. He is best known for his book, "The Last Days of Hitler."

REBELLIOUS TRIBESMEN NEW THREAT TO KHANH

BAŨ ME THUOT, South Viet Nam (AP) — Maj.-Gen. Nguyen Khanh, premier of South Viet Nam, flew to this mountain town today in a personal attempt to quell a simmering rebellion by American-trained mountain tribesmen.

About 4,000 government troops and 12 artillery pieces were set up at the perimeter of the town to head off a possible onslaught by the heavily-armed tribesmen as the premier arrived from Saigon.

Hundreds Flee Homes In Santa Barbara Fire

(Times News Services)

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. — A raging brush fire roared on out of control today in suburbs of this seaside resort city.

An official survey showed that 66 homes have been destroyed and more than 23,000 acres blackened.

In addition, U.S. district ranger Warren Barnes said he feared for 40 other homes which may have been engulfed in the flames.

Fire officials gave their official damage count following a trip over the burned area by helicopter.

Frightened people scurried from their homes as fingers of flame moved into the outskirts of this besieged town.

Observers said firemen are making a stand at each house threatened, but that the 40-mile-an-hour winds kept pushing the fire onward. Cement delivery trucks have been pressed into service as water carriers.

Officials said as many as 5,000 persons have been forced to evacuate, some of them having to leave their homes twice as the flames died down, then arose again.

The wall of fire, about nine miles wide, was formed when two fires merged this morning.

The southwest edge of the fire was approaching the Goleta Valley foothill area posing a threat to several housing tracts located there.

Fire equipment from as far south as Los Angeles was being thrown into the battle against the fire.

USE COMPUTER

The forest service also was flying in a new device known as a fire scanner computer. All available information will be fed into this computer which in turn will issue electronic opinions of how best to fight the fire.

The firefighters also were attempting to establish a fire line between the latest fire that broke out in the San Marcos area and numerous homes in the San Marcos Trout Club area.

Residents of the San Marcos Pass area were ordered to evacuate by Santa Barbara County sheriff's deputies.

Shortly before dawn the firefighters received a slight break as winds died down and a cooling trend began. However, it was expected the winds would increase again this afternoon with temperatures predicted near 100 degrees.

Fire officials said there was little indication that the fires could be contained before other buildings are destroyed.

A lack of water pressure also was hampering firefighting efforts. Residents of Montecito were urged not to use water for anything but essential purposes.

More than 1,300 firefighters—many from cities up to 300 miles away—battled the blaze.

DRAMATIC RESCUE TOOK 2½ HOURS

Boy Wins Battle In Surf

NARRAGANSETT, R.I. (AP) — A 12-year-old boy, swept off rocks by heavy surf Wednesday night, swam and floated for 2½ hours while rescuers labored to reach him.

He finally was rescued by a U.S. Coast Guard boat.

More than 2,000 persons lined Ocean Road at Narragansett pier to watch the rescue.

The boy, Carl Dykstra of Wakefield, R.I., had gone onto the rocks with his brother-in-law, Andrew Toth, 27, and his sister, Mrs. Toth, 21.

He was washed off by a wave from the fringe of hurricane Gladys about 7 p.m. and carried out by the surf. Several hundred feet off shore he was able to start swimming.

Rescue units from three towns sped to the scene, rigged floodlights and attempted to shoot a line to the boy. But the line kept missing and the surf thwarted coast guard efforts to launch a rubber raft.

Rescuers using a bullhorn shouted to the lad to float and not to exhaust himself attempting to swim.

At 9:20 p.m. a coast guard boat finally reached him.

Japan Area Raked By Typhoon Wilda

TOKYO (UPI) — Typhoon Wilda howled across Japan's southernmost island of Kyushu today. It caused widespread destruction and injury as it headed on an uncertain course toward the main island of Honshu.

If it remains on its present course, Wilda, biggest of all Pacific storms, will follow the west coast shoreline along the Sea of Japan Friday.

However, the meteorological agency said that the slightest atmospheric disturbance at any time could tilt the typhoon further east and send it on a path through Tokyo, scene of the forthcoming 1964 Olympic Games.

SWEDES ACCUSED ON CYPRUS

Arms Smuggled By UN Troops

NICOSIA (AP) — Cypriot police said today they had apprehended five men of the Swedish contingent of the United Nations peace force in Cyprus for smuggling a large quantity of arms and ammunition on behalf of the Turkish-Cypriots.

Huge Iron Ore Find In Alaska

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — Pan American Petroleum Company said Wednesday it has discovered a deposit of iron ore in Alaska which could rank "as one of the top seven or eight iron ore discoveries ever made."

A Greek-Cypriot police source said the five Swedes were caught transporting 75 rifles, 10 Bren guns, five bazookas, two mortars, 10 cases of hand grenades and 100,000 rounds of assorted ammunition.

Loaded in armored cars

The source said this was loaded aboard two armored personnel carriers of the Swedish contingent, flying a UN flag and bearing UN markings.

The UN statement said the arms and ammunition had been handed over to the Greek-Cypriot government and that a "thorough investigation of the incident" has been ordered by the peace force commander, Gen. K. S. Thimayya of India.

Police gave this account:

A roadblock was set up on a winding coastal road after receipt of "certain information." The roadblock was manned by armed Greek-Cypriots who took up positions on the surrounding hillsides with guns trained on the approaches to the roadblock. The Swedes at first refused to allow the armored cars to be searched, claiming this would be a violation of the UN freedom of movement and demanded they be allowed to proceed.

The Greek-Cypriot forces, however, refused UN headquarters in Nicosia a demanding action at the highest level. The UN force commander himself, Thimayya, went to the scene by helicopter. Thimayya authorized Greek-Cypriot police to carry out a search, which revealed the arms and ammunition.

He said that despite its low iron content, the ore in 10 to 15 years "may very well represent an economically attractive source of supply."

He said the deposits are close to Pan Am's large natural gas reserves in Alaska's Cook Inlet, so that gas might be used to reduce the ore to a concentrate containing about 95 per cent iron.

Ocean transportation also is convenient.

Yost said two large American steel companies and two Japanese firms have expressed interest in the ore fields.

China Scouting West For Chemical Plants

LONDON (AP) — China is reported buying or negotiating for $200,000,000 worth of chemical plants from Britain, Western Europe and Japan.

Informants said the Chinese already have ordered seven plants from West European countries and two from Japan, and about a dozen are under negotiation with British firms.

British businessmen are saying privately that the $200,000,000 involved seems to be within China's capacity to pay because of an exceptionally good harvest this year.

The British government has been cool, however, to overtures from Peking to underwrite long-term credits to help build China's chemical industry.

An authoritative source said the British government, which insures exporters against loss, does not yet see the Chinese as a good long-term credit risk.

The board of trade earlier this year allowed up to $280,000,000 of long-term credit to the Soviet Union for purchase of chemical plants. An equivalent sum is to be allowed smaller Communist countries of Eastern Europe for the same purpose.

FOLLOW RUSSIAN LEAD

The British government and British businessmen have the impression that the Chinese are following the lead of the Russians in putting increasing emphasis on production of plastics, fertilizers and artificial fibres.

The Chinese seem mainly interested in production units for petrochemicals, synthetic fibres and fertilizers.

ATTORNEY-GENERAL
BONNER

'VERY ERUDITE'

New Laws Under Study, Says Bonner

Attorney-General Robert Bonner described the report of the Clyne royal commission on expropriation Wednesday as "very erudite."

Mr. Bonner said the report by Commissioner J. V. Clyne hasn't yet been considered in cabinet but that he has already instructed his legislative counsel to study it "with a view to legislation at the coming session."

"The report seems to move a long distance toward correcting some of the problems we have experienced in recent years," the attorney-general said.

It would, he said, prevent a repetition of the sort of case that led to the commission's appointment in 1961.

The study was ordered after the estate of Edwin Alston Parkford was awarded $442,676 in 1960 for part of a property bought for $143,043 six years previously. The land was needed for the Deas Island thruway south of Vancouver.

Mr. Bonner said that the subject is extremely complex.

"A lot of people are going to have to burn a lot of midnight oil."

Mr. Bonner doubted that the province's courts system would be overtaxed by declaring the courts sole tribunal for compensation disputes in expropriations, as recommended by the report.

"The courts do have extensive responsibilities in this field now," he said, "and with more attention to negotiations for voluntary purchases, as Mr. Clyne recommends, it might well be fewer disputes will arise."

Cabinet Hears Mayors Scheme

Times Staff Reporter

BURNABY — Federal financial help may come to the rescue of Greater Victoria and Vancouver transit systems, Mayor R. B. Wilson disclosed today.

In an interview with the Times, he revealed that the recent Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities executive meeting with the federal cabinet, from which he has just returned, proposed the plan.

Mayor Wilson said the CFMM executive asked the national government to undertake a program of massive financial assistance to faltering urban transit systems similar to one recently approved by the U.S. government.

It would be based on the premise that subsidies for urban transit would provide a better solution than continually increasing the number of roads and expressways in cities and in the long run would be considerably cheaper. It would involve a cost-sharing arrangement among the three levels of government.

If such a program is undertaken, it likely would see its start here because the B.C. Hydro transit systems appear to be struggling with the most acute problem.

Specifically, the CFMM executive asked the federal cabinet for its participation in a conference with the provincial and municipal governments to discuss the idea and work out a program.

"The proposal was very well received by the cabinet. I certainly was encouraged by their response," said Mayor Wilson. He said the next step was for a committee to raise the question with provincial governments to see if they would agree to a conference. Although Mayor Wilson did not confirm it, there have been rumors circulating among observers at the Public Utilities Commission hearings on B.C. Hydro's requested 25-cent bus fare that a deal to share the transit deficit might be worked out.

The CFMM approach could become the springboard for a quick start on subsidized transit.

Semi-Metro With Some Strings

Times Staff Reporter

BURNABY — Union of B.C. Municipalities delegates today took a major stride towards regional co-ordination of civic services.

They gave almost unanimous support to a modified resolution accepting the principle of "semi-metro" — with a big "but" added.

The string they attached was "that such endorsement contemplates future liaison between the department of municipal affairs and the UBCM executive in the drafting of appropriate legislation."

Victoria's Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow, who Wednesday warned the convention to go slowly in this field, this morning appeared satisfied with the modification ensuring liaison. (See earlier story Page 3.)

The resolution combined an earlier UBCM executive recommendation with a prior resolution from Nelson urging creation of some type of co-ordination of regional municipal services.

Adoption in principle of what Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell calls the "joint services board" concept undoubtedly will go down as the most important action of this year's convention.

Municipal Men Cool To Campbell's Plea

ROUND-THE-WORLD tour will be undertaken by Most Rev. Howard H. Clark, primate of the Anglican Church in Canada. He wants to see some of the projects being supported by the Canadian church and to take part in ceremonies at Calcutta marking the 150th anniversary of the founding of the Anglican episcopate in India. While in London Archbishop Clark will hold talks with the Archbishop of Canterbury.

STRONGER MANDATE UNLIKELY

UNITED NATIONS. (CP) — Chances of a stronger mandate for the United Nations Cyprus force appeared dimmer as the Security Council today scheduled its seventh meeting on the issue.

Western sources said it appeared the council would fall back on the same sort of authority it has given the force in its two previous three-month terms.

Several countries providing men for the force, Canada among them, have been pressing for a clearer mandate.

Oswald Feared Coup By Marines In U.S.

DALLAS (AP)—Lee Harvey Oswald, the accused assassin of President Kennedy, thought the U.S. Marines might one day take over the United States in a Latin American-type coup, the Dallas Morning News reports.

A copyrighted story by Hugh Aynesworth, apparently based on notebook writings and letters of Oswald, said Oswald mentioned the possible overthrow in a speech.

Oswald wrote: "Americans are apt to scoff at the idea that a military coup in the United States, as so often happens in Latin American countries, could ever replace our government. But that is an idea that has grounds for consideration."

The speech was written for delivery to a New Orleans audience less than four months before President Kennedy was shot in Dallas Nov. 22, 1963. It was not known whether the speech actually was given.

Oswald, a former marine, described the Marine Corps as a "right-wing - infiltrated organization of dire potential consequences to the freedoms of the United States."

Oswald, writing mostly on notebook paper, expounded at great length on his philosophy of world governments.

Among his writings was a plan which would be used in event of a military overthrow. He termed it an "activist" or "futurist" to "safeguard an independent course of action after the debacle."

Oswald detailed a doctrine which he considered a "truly democratic system." He said it would combine the best qualities of both capitalism and communism, but would be opposed to both world systems as they now operate.

By JOHN MIKA

BURNABY—Almost 500 civic leaders here listened in silence to Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell's call Wednesday that they "break step with the cherished Mursion Plan" and change gait to his semi-metro plans.

It was his first speech as minister to the Union of B.C. Municipalities and it only won a short and perfunctory round of applause at the end—followed by a public plea from UBCM president A. V. Fraser that delegates consider him "a real friend" and not an enemy.

Despite that, Mr. Campbell was seared by critics during the question period who objected to his controversial winter works grant cutoff except for men on relief.

Mr. Campbell, in his speech, said royal commissions in Manitoba and New Brunswick dealt with the Mursion Plan concept and their conclusions proved to him it would doom local government.

The Mursion Plan was evolved in 1958 by former UBCM president Major-General C. A. P. Mursion and it contended that the provincial government should pay for all services to people—such as schools and hospitals—while municipal governments paid for services to property only—such as sewers and roads.

BEHIND SCENES

It was bitterly criticized by W. D. Black, Mr. Campbell's predecessor, and led to a behind-the-scenes struggle between the provincial government and UBCM.

(Significantly the legislature's committee on municipal affairs was never again convened by Mr. Black and Wednesday the UBCM passed a resolution asking that it be re-instituted by Mr. Campbell.)

Mr. Campbell told the convention that the New Brunswick royal commission endorsed the "services to people versus property" proposition and recommended it be implemented by the creation of centralized, non-elected commissions to administer it.

TOKYO (Reuters) — Police reported Wednesday that 31 women were among 213 pickpockets arrested in Tokyo since June 1 in a drive to rid the world's largest city of pickpockets before the Olympic games next month.

"The idea of course is taxation without representation and if this is the road that the people versus property concept can take us down, then I would hope that it loses whatever headhold and hearthold it still maintains in B.C."

He said complete elimination of much of the local government system was recommended by the New Brunswick report "because obviously, having lost its role in the services to people it had lost its role period."

He said the Manitoba commission foresaw these pitfalls so it recommended a mixture of responsibilities be maintained, as in B.C., with costs shared by the provincial and municipal governments.

BEST IN CANADA

Mr. Campbell claimed that B.C. gives its municipalities the best cost-sharing deal in Canada. But he pointedly added that no formula was static or perfect and the provincial government "does not quarrel" with changing the formula to keep pace with changing needs.

"Further, the government of this province believes that one of the fundamental roles to be played by local government in the years ahead is in the area of exercising direction over land use," he said.

"The fact that I, as minister, now exercise direction over 92 1/2 per cent of the area of this great province, insofar as zoning is concerned, should not be taken as an indication of things to come."

(This apparently was an oblique acknowledgment of previous reports in the Times that one of Mr. Campbell's goals is to encourage more unorganized territories to incorporate as municipalities.)

"Perhaps the time has come, then, to re-examine many of the implications involved in the so-called concept of services to people versus services to property," he said.

"I have suggested only two.

STERILE

"Firstly, no level of government could be more sterile than one which limited its horizons to the physical servicing of property."

"Secondly, no level of government with such limits could more surely ensure its ultimate oblivion."

Mr. Campbell also outlined the principles of his semi-metro scheme—involving a joint services board for co-ordinating regional services in several municipalities and surrounding unorganized areas.

The first such scheme is now under discussion in Greater Victoria and he plans to propose it to Greater Vancouver municipalities at a meeting next month.

AFRICANS THREATEN BRITAIN

NAIROBI (AP)—African member states might expel Britain from the Commonwealth if she continued to supply South Africa with arms, said Kenya Health Minister Dr. Njoroge Mungai Tuesday night. He told Parliament that though South Africa had been expelled from the Commonwealth, other states persisted in treating her "as if she were a civilized country."

Edgelow Stalls Campbell Plan At UBCM Meet

Times Staff Reporter

BURNABY—Ald Geoffrey Edgelow cut a large swath at the Union of B.C. Municipalities convention Wednesday.

He rose three times to speak and each time made a direct hit on his targets: Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell; the UBCM executive; and opponents to a broader tax basis for providing fire protection to hospitals in rural municipalities.

Ald Edgelow stopped cold a UBCM executive resolution to endorse Mr. Campbell's semi-metro proposal when it appeared it was about to be passed early in the first convention session.

Delegates gave his motion to table the idea for further study almost unanimous support when he said even if the proposal came from the executive it should be dealt with very cautiously.

"If we pass this today it could create the most important municipal legislation since the province of British Columbia was formed and we should make sure we know what we are doing," he said.

"I'm not saying it's not a good idea but we should take the time to study it so that we can be convinced that it is good for the whole province," he said.

Ald Edgelow said he had grave doubts about the value of the joint services board to Victoria unless it was shown that it would not result in city ratepayers, who already have paid for their own sewer system, paying again to provide sewers for other municipalities.

A few minutes earlier, he was the only one of several critics of Mr. Campbell to draw blood. Three delegates, during a question period following the ministers' first speech of the UBCM, lashed his decision to restrict winter works grants to welfare recipients.

Mr. Campbell brushed them all off except the point raised by Ald Edgelow which he admitted had some merit.

Ald Edgelow had raked Mr. Campbell on the grounds that his decision broke faith with all municipalities that had drawn up and budgeted projects on the

CONSTERNATION TO INVESTORS

Gordon Plan Disturbs U.K.

LONDON (CP)—Finance Minister Gordon's plan to curb foreign investment in Canadian banks and other financial institutions is causing concern in London business circles.

"Investors in Canadian banks can hardly be expected to relish the latest moves," says The Daily Telegraph's financial correspondent.

"But financial opinion is that the moves are aimed mainly against acquisitive United States companies and, in practice, should not have a great deal of impact on the average investor." The financial correspondent of The Times says that, superficially, the moves "would seem to call for a massive off-loading of surplus shares held by non-residents."

This prospect "must cause consternation to U.S. institutions and investors and also to British insurance companies, which are important shareholders in Canadian insurance." The Times says one redeeming feature of Gordon's plan is the clause allowing shares to be registered in the name of a Canadian even when a non-resident is the beneficial owner.

"This would provide an incentive to a gradual sale of assets and bring about the desired return of institutions to Canadian control less painfully."

British Columbia has sent her mating call echoing across the wilds, and 'way up north where men are men although not too plentiful, the Yukoners are weighing the advantages of hitching a dogsled to our ascendent star.

Darn if I know why they hesitate. Just look at a few—a very few—of the benefits that would tumble in upon them.

First, they'd be rid of the uncouth and outdated gold-panner who squats on their car licence plates. Down here in Beautiful British Columbia, we have developed modern methods of gold extraction that beat panning the gravel heck-a-mile.

You take our 5 per cent sales tax, for example, and how I wish you could! I'll admit it does chafe a little at first. But in a few years you'll get so used to tacking it on the price of the new car you'll drive on your new blacktop that you will hardly bother to cuss it.

That's only one of the clever devices we use to garner nuggets from the pockets where they nestle. Our Premier Bennett, a man with an imagination big as all outdoors, has developed some mighty smart extraction techniques; in fact he uncooks a new one every time business threatens to lag.

The simple kind like hiking bus fares, I can grasp without too much trouble. But that's kid stuff, it doesn't leave me wondering which way is up.

Mr. Bennett and his merry men always knows which way is up. Like Robin Hood, whose taste for archery he shares, our premier takes from the rich and gives to the poor.

It's like this, more or less. Here in the province of which you are invited to become part, we have the rich municipalities on one side and the poor taxpayer on the other.

Mr. Bennett takes from the municipalities and gives to the taxpayer in the form of what we call a home-owners' grant.

This grant is supposed to pay most of our municipal property tax, a deal that used to require a pile of skins the height of a trade musket.

But that's all changed. This year I found my municipal tax had climbed two-muskets high, and I barely made it. Naturally, we don't blame Mr. Bennett for this puzzling state of affairs. It's just that the rich and wicked municipalities refuse to play by the rules; but then maybe they never heard about Robin Hood, or have confused him with Ali Baba.

Back along the trail, I mentioned the new roads you'll be musing over when or if union with B.C. becomes more than a glint in our empire-moulding premier's eye.

Well, if there's one thing we have in our province, it's roads, and a spunky, sassy highway minister to keep the old blacktop pot a-bolling.

Only trouble seems to be that on Vancouver Island where I live, the blacktop kind of twiddles off into washboard gravel or worse when you move out where the voting public gets skinnier.

On some of these roads, you can burst a muffler or sprain a shock absorber...about as quick as I can say 'Welcome Sourdough.'

But in these parts, people aren't selfish. They realize the need's greater elsewhere, and they wouldn't dream of standing in the way of Progress.

Nobody does, in B.C. When some statesman—we don't have plain, garden-variety politicians in the Bennett country—hollers "Progress!" we step aside and let him through.

It's just possible that Social Credit-type Progress may cost us our salmon runs and a few other minor odds and ends, but what's that against more hydro-electric power than we know what to do with?

We were going to have our own bank, too, but Ottawa, which is even more wicked than the municipalities, has thrown a block into that latest assault on the placers.

But don't let any such fleabites dissuade you. Sons of the Midnight Sun, Toss away the gold pan, turn your backs on Ottawa, join the new and burgeoning empire of the west.

Here in B.C., thanks to Mr. Bennett and an unparalleled wave of postwar prosperity, every man's a king...and has his tax receipts to prove it, by golly!

Fog Delays Planes At Pat-Bay

Planes to and from Victoria International Airport were delayed up to two hours by heavy fog today, and further delays were expected.

The 8:40 a.m. plane from Victoria to Vancouver did not leave until 10:40 and the 11 a.m. flight was delayed until after 12 noon.

Incoming planes from Vancouver and Seattle were also delayed up to two hours.

The forecast is for abnormal flying conditions tonight and Friday morning, an Air Canada spokesman said.

MISSED APPROACH

At Vancouver International Airport, heavy fog forced a Canadian Pacific Airlines DC-8 Jet, inbound from Hawaii, to miss its first approach to the runway. But it landed safely 25 minutes later.

Severe fog was also reported at Abbotsford, Bellingham and Seattle. So the CPA plane would have been forced to fly to Calgary had it missed its second approach.

Several domestic flights out of Vancouver were delayed up to half an hour.

Fairly heavy fog was also reported off the coast of southern Vancouver Island, but the harbor master's office said no delays to shipping had been reported.

Rape Suspect Still Hunted By Police

Esquimalt police are still without suspects in their investigation of a Monday morning knife-point rape.

Police chief James Smart denied this morning a report that an arrest had been made.

"We don't know who the man is," he said.

Police began investigating after a 19-year-old girl reported she had been raped in her own bed by a prowler who entered by a bathroom window.

She was home alone while her girl friend was away.

Fingerprint tests conducted early in the investigation are reported to have been inconclusive.

Last Chance For Merger Next Week

Second Meeting Votes Against It

Supporters of incorporation for the Langford-Colwood-Metchosin area have a last chance to keep organization studies going.

The second of three public meetings in the district Wednesday voted 80-27 against further steps toward incorporation, bringing the total vote to 116-64 anti-organization.

Last meeting in the series will be next Wednesday at 8 p.m. in Colwood community hall.

If this meeting rejects incorporation studies, the matter may be dropped.

SIMPLE MAJORITY

John Williams, Sook's District 62 school board chairman and a member of the six-man incorporation study committee warned it is up to the people attending the Colwood meeting to keep the spark aglow.

He suggested a simple majority of Colwood-Metchosin residents favoring studies should be enough to keep them going after the next meeting, rather than the grand total of votes.

If this fails it could lead into study of independent organization within the district—such as for the Langford area alone, he said.

Mr. Williams said the meetings so far—at Langford and at Luxton—have been packed with anti-incorporationists and people not prepared to accept information gathered by the committee.

MINDS MADE UP

"They have their minds made up before the meeting even starts," he said.

If the next meeting shows residents favor continuing study, a petition asking for a referendum on incorporation will be started. Each needs 60 per cent affirmative to pass.

Mr. Williams claims a majority of residents are pro-incorporation. Parish priest W. J. O'Brien, a 17-year resident, said he feels the move will die through lack of support by the people who do favor organization.

Many of those opposed feel that organization will mean higher taxes and less freedom from regulation—things they have in some cases fled from in municipalities.

"Somewhere down the line we have not presented this to the people in the proper manner," the school board chairman said.

"We have permitted organized opponents to hinder the work of the committee and failed to interest the supporters.

"The committee is unable to come up with an answer on how to prevent it.

"I am concerned about the development of the area by the people who live here, not by some outside pressure," Mr. Williams said.

If the next meeting fails, the committee will seek direction from the municipal affairs department and Mr. Williams will suggest partial organization.

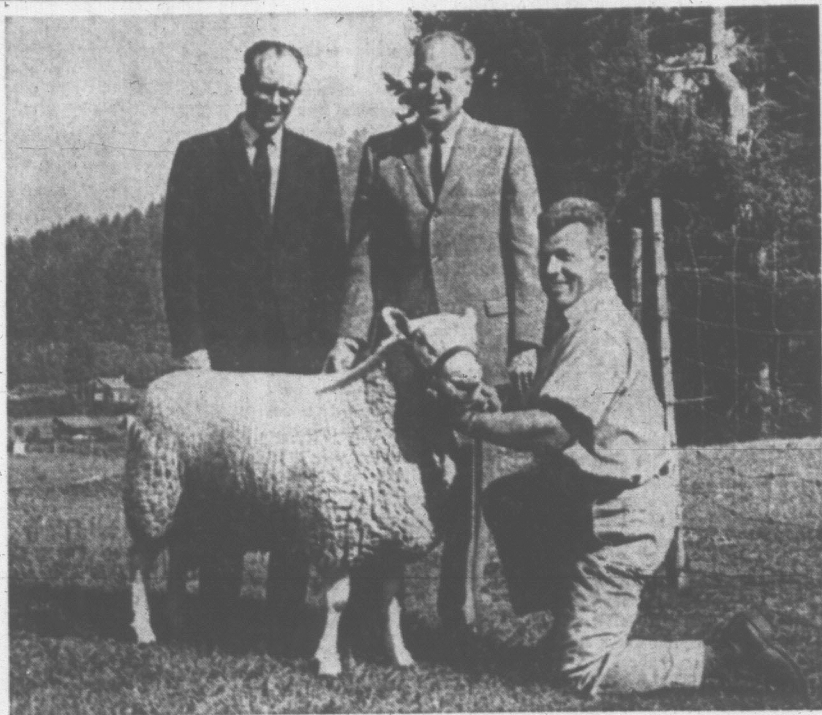

Bottle Drive

St. Columbia Scouts and Cubs will hold a bottle drive Saturday in the Burnside Wilkinson-Holland Hastings district.

SMOKE SCARE ONLY SLASH

Heavy smoke seen over southern Vancouver Island is due to slash-burning, not to destructive fires, a spokesman for the B.C. Forest Service said today.

Some 60 permits have been issued for slash-burning in the district.

City Loses Battle To Firemen's Lobby

Three-Shift Plan Defeated at UBCM

One of Victoria's two resolutions—seeking more flexibility in arranging fire department shifts—was defeated by the Union of B.C. Municipalities today despite an impassioned speech by Mayor R. B. Wilson, Times' City Hall reporter John Mika reports from Burnaby.

The mayor stepped down from the podium as chairman of the morning session to move the Victoria resolution advocating permissive legislation to bargain with the firemen's union for a three-shift system of eight hours each to replace the present two-shift system if the union goes ahead with plans for seeking a shorter work week.

Mayor or Wilson referred to heavy lobbying of delegates by firemen—B.C. regional vice-president Eric Simmons of Victoria and other firemen have registered as guests of the convention and buttonholed delegates in corridors and a "hospitality" room to oppose the Victoria resolution, and also more than a dozen lower mainland firemen have been operating a "courtesy" taxi service for delegates.

VERY ACTIVE

"I know there is a very active and forceful lobby by the firemen's union and that is their right in a democracy," Mayor Wilson told the convention.

"But I do hope and pray this meeting will make a decision on the rights and justice of the case and not because of any pressure that may have been brought to bear on the delegates."

He said firemen now have six days off for every seven working shifts, including four night shifts they spend "mostly in bed" in firehall dormitories. He said if the two-shift system is maintained as the firemen want and the working week is reduced from the present 48-hour average, the fireman will get eight days off for every seven working shifts.

OAK BAY AGREES

"I think in our labor negotiations we should attempt to be fair to our employees but also we should try to be fair to our taxpayers too," he said.

"This is purely permissible legislation and I cannot for the life of me see how anyone can oppose it."

Oak Bay Reeve Allan Cox said his municipality was wholeheartedly behind the Victoria stand and he pointed out "we are not trying to scrap the two-platoon system but merely seeking a further option" than now provided by B.C. legislation.

However several delegates rose and said they knew their fire departments would be unhappy about the resolution so it should be turned down.

Vancouver Ald. Hugh Bird, former fire chief of Vancouver, said all firemen's organizations supported the two-shift system and "under no circumstances will a three-platoon system give you a better department."

LABOR POOL

Victoria's resolution was defeated by a show of hands vote.

More labor matters were raised in two other resolutions adopted this morning.

The most important found delegates agreeing to pool municipal resources in negotiating with civic unions.

They approved establishment of a central contracts negotiating staff which would be used by municipalities on a regional basis.

FLUORIDATION OUT

Wednesday, debates on resolutions saw the entire Victoria delegation voting for a motion that would permit municipal councils to introduce a fluoridation system in the water supply provided 60 per cent of the aldermen were in favor. However, the resolution was defeated by a narrow margin on a counted vote.

Ald. Mrs. Lily Wilson, who spoke vehemently against an "open Sunday" resolution—asking the provincial government to permit municipalities to allow Sunday sports and entertainment, as Vancouver now does under its separate charter—saw the motion adopted by an overwhelming vote. She was one of the few to oppose it.

Q. Was the fair that was held at Seattle in 1962 a World's Fair and classed the same as the fair that will open in Montreal in 1967? Is the U.S.A. a member of the International Bureau of Expositions?

A. The Century 21 Exposition, held in Seattle in 1962, was authorized by the International Bureau of Expositions as a second category fair. The current New York World's Fair is not authorized by the I.B.E. Expo '67, opening in Montreal in three years time, will be the first official World's Fair since the Brussels Fair in 1958.

It Took a Lot of Ram-ifications But 'The King' Finally Joins Flock

"The long wait" is over for Saanich farmer Pat Hoole.

It came to an end this week when the Oldfield Road dairyman-sheep breeder took delivery of a large crate at the local express office.

Inside the crate was a yearling North Country Cheviot ram which had come all the way from Oshawa, Ontario.

The search for him started two years ago.

Like most progressive farmers, Pat Hoole's watchword is "breed improvement" and he was determined to find a superior stud ram for his small flock of "North Country" sheep.

There are not too many of the hornless, Roman-nosed breed in B.C., despite their excellent meat and fleece qualities, but Eastern Canada has large flocks.

So farmer Hoole enlisted the aid of the B.C. department of agriculture which, in turn, contacted its federal counterpart.

With Assistant Livestock Commissioner Roy Wilkinson working at this end, and W. S. (Bill) McMullen, federal agricultural district supervisor of production and marketing working in the east, prospects looked good.

But it wasn't as easy as it might appear.

Because the breed is comparatively new to Canada (it was not introduced from Scotland until 1951) superior stud rams were just not available.

After much searching, and inspection of stock by federal department men, and much correspondence with the provincial livestock office, the right animal was found.

It was in the show string of W. Stan Bagg of Oshawa who was exhibiting at the Canadian National Exhibition at Toronto.

With some reluctance, Mr. Bagg agreed to sell the 300-pound animal to Mr. Hoole, and the transfer and shipping was arranged.

The ram, as it turned out, was named reserve champion of its breed at the CNE and has become the envy of many sheep breeders across the country.

When he came out of his crate, "The King" showed Hoole he was well worth waiting for.

Forgery Admitted, But Not Guilty Plea on Drugs

Frank F. H. Neel pleaded guilty Wednesday in city police court to forging a prescription to obtain drugs.

But he pleaded not guilty to a charge of possessing narcotics, and was remanded until Wednesday.

He originally appeared in court Saturday morning on the possession charge, and the narcotics were named as dilaudid, a morphine derivative.

Neel said Wednesday he wants to be tried by a magistrate without a jury, and asked that the $1,000 bail set Saturday be reduced.

"I can't do that, you've pleaded guilty to one of the charges," Magistrate William Ostler told him.

Stuntman Needed for United Appeal Sign

FIREMEN TO THE RESCUE

Victoria Fire Department has come to the rescue of the United Appeal Campaign. Today they answered a plea by appeal officials for a steeple jack-cum-stunt man to handle the progress indicator on the Bentall Building.

The problem arose Wednesday when the total donations to date rose to $29,866. When the time came to change the figures on the big board, how to do so wasn't quite so easy to figure out.

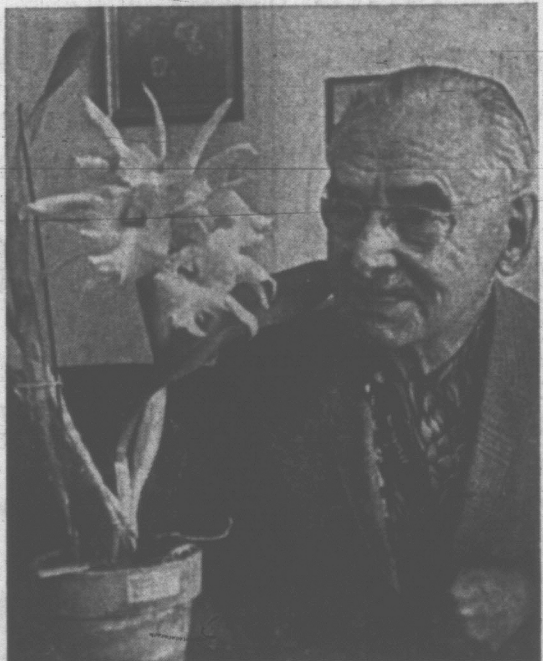

To pull the lever which alters the total, someone has to creep around a ledge two storeys up, clamber round two columns and then get back again.

"There wasn't anyone here willing to do it," said campaign public relations officer Bill Patton.

"At first we thought of advertising but then the fire department agreed to send a man around to do the job."

Only thing holding up the job being done today was approval of the city manager's department.

STORM RAKES JAPAN AREA

TOKYO (UPI) — Typhoon Wilda howled across Japan's southernmost island of Kyushu today. It caused widespread destruction and injury as it headed on an uncertain course toward the main island of Honshu.

If it remains on its present course, Wilda, biggest of all Pacific storms, will follow the west coast shoreline along the Sea of Japan Friday.

However, the meteorological agency said that the slightest atmospheric disturbance at any time could tilt the typhoon further east and send it on a path through Tokyo, scene of the forthcoming 1964 Olympic Games.

Huge Iron Ore Find In Alaska

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — Pan American Petroleum Company said Wednesday it has discovered a deposit of iron ore in Alaska which could rank "as one of the top seven or eight iron ore discoveries ever made."

Pan Am, a subsidiary of Standard Oil Company of Indiana, said the ore is only about 15 per cent iron, but that the deposits are estimated to contain nearly one billion tons of recoverable iron.

The deposits, on the Alaskan peninsula 200 miles southwest of Anchorage, represent a reserve larger than any in the United States except those in Minnesota, said Randolph Yost, Pan Am president.

He said that despite its low iron content, the ore in 10 to 15 years "may very well represent an economically attractive source of supply."

He said the deposits are close to Pan Am's large natural gas reserves in Alaska's Cook Inlet, so that gas might be used to reduce the ore to a concentrate containing about 95 per cent iron.

Ocean transportation also is convenient.

Yost said two large American steel companies and two Japanese firms have expressed interest in the ore fields.

New Laws Under Study, Says Bonner

Attorney-General Robert Bonner described the report of the Clyne royal commission on expropriation Wednesday as "very erudite."

Mr. Bonner said the report by Commissioner J. V. Clyne hasn't yet been considered in cabinet but that he has already instructed his legislative counsel to study it "with a view to legislation at the coming session."

"The report seems to move a long distance toward correcting some of the problems we have experienced in recent years," the attorney-general said.

It would, he said, prevent a repetition of the sort of case that led to the commission's appointment in 1961.

The study was ordered after the estate of Edwin Alston Parkford was awarded $442,676 in 1960 for part of a property bought for $143,043 six years previously. The land was needed for the Deas Island thruway south of Vancouver.

Mr. Bonner said that the subject is extremely complex.

"A lot of people are going to have to burn a lot of midnight oil."

Mr. Bonner doubted that the province's courts system would be overtaxed by declaring the courts sole tribunal for compensation disputes in expropriations, as recommended by the report.

"The courts do have extensive responsibilities in this field now," he said, "and with more attention to negotiations for voluntary purchases, as Mr. Clyne recommends, it might well be fewer disputes will arise."

Eight Firemen Missing In Raging Calif. Blaze

SANTA BARBARA, Calif.—A giant fire burned out of control on a 10-mile front today, destroying an estimated 100 homes and forcing thousands to flee suburbs ringing this ocean front city. Eight firemen were missing and presumed trapped by one outbreak this afternoon.

Some 300 homes were threatened by the fire, one of the worst in Southern California history, and there was no end to the fire in sight.

The U.S. Forest Service said the eight missing men were working to check a new hot spot near La Cumbre peak four miles north of downtown Santa Barbara. Four others in the same area trying to check flames which erupted from the big burn were injured.

There actually were two man-caused fires, but they joined to create a 10-mile chain of flame this afternoon. The first started near Montecito Tuesday and routed 5,000 persons from their homes during the night and morning.

A second fire—believed set deliberately—started in San Marcos Pass northwest of here and joined the original fire late this morning.

An estimated 1,800 men fought the fire, which virtually surrounded the city, from the mountains to the sea.

Officially, the U.S. forest service said 66 homes were destroyed. Another 40 homes in the Painted-Cave area about four miles north of downtown also apparently were totally destroyed, according to a helicopter survey.

More than 60 homes in the same general area were in the path of the fire and in definite danger. All were evacuated.

Grant Morris, assistant regional forester, said the situation could be even worse if weather conditions deteriorated as they have the past two nights.

FINAL BULLETINS

Top Canada Racing Driver Charged

TORONTO (CP)—Jackson Grant Clark, 31, one of Canada's best-known racing car drivers, has been charged with 37 counts of theft, fraud and possession of stolen vehicles.

Police said today the charges involve some $70,000 and were laid following four months of investigations by two detectives from Metropolitan Toronto's police auto squad.

Police said the fraud charges concern the financing of the cars after they were stolen.

Strong Support At UBCM Parley

BURNABY (CP)—The Union of British Columbia Municipalities, for the second straight year, called for lotteries today to help pay for such things as education, public health and hospital construction.

The UBCM annual convention, passed with little debate a North Vancouver resolution asking the provincial government to seek the necessary Criminal Code amendments to permit lotteries.

Ald. Lily Wilson of Victoria, who Wednesday opposed Sunday sports, led the opposition against lotteries.

She and others questioned the idea that revenues from lotteries would make an appreciable difference to hospitals.

However, the vote, favoring the resolution, was almost unanimous after one delegate said that many of his fellows probably had Irish sweepstake tickets in their pockets.

MAYOR WILSON SAYS

Ottawa Subsidies May Rescue Buses

By JOHN MIKA
Times Staff Reporter

BURNABY—Federal financial help may come to the rescue of Greater Victoria and Vancouver transit systems, Mayor R. B. Wilson disclosed today.

In an interview with the Times, he revealed that the recent Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities executive meeting with the federal cabinet, from which he has just returned, proposed the plan.

Mayor Wilson said the CFMM executive asked the national government to undertake a program of massive financial assistance to alter urban transit systems similar to one recently approved by the U.S. government.

It would be based on the premise that subsidies for urban transit would provide a better solution than continually increasing the number of roads and expressways in cities and in the long run would be considerably cheaper. It would involve a cost-sharing arrangement among the three levels of government.

If such a program is undertaken, it likely would see its start here because the B.C. Hydro transit systems appear to be struggling with the most acute problem.

Three-Level Parley Suggested

Specifically, the CFMM executive asked the federal cabinet for its participation in a conference with the provincial and municipal governments to discuss the idea and work out a program.

"The proposal was very well received by the cabinet. I certainly was encouraged by their response," said Mayor Wilson.

He said the next step was for a committee to raise the question with provincial government to see if they would agree to a conference.

Although Mayor Wilson did not confirm it, there have been rumors circulating among observers at the Public Utilities Commission hearings on B.C. Hydro's requested 25-cent bus fare that a deal to share the transit deficit might be worked out.

The CFMM approach could become the springboard for a quick start on subsidized transit question with provincial government.

Semi-Metro With Some Strings

BURNABY—Union of B.C. Municipalities delegates today took a major stride towards regional co-ordination of civic services.

They gave almost unanimous support to a modified resolution accepting the principle of "semi-metro"—with a big "but" added.

The string they attached was "that such endorsement contemplates future liaison between the department of municipal affairs and the UBCM executive in the drafting of appropriate legislation."

Victoria's Ald. Geoffrey Edgemoor, who Wednesday warned the convention to go slowly in this field, this morning appeared satisfied with the modification ensuring liaison. (See earlier story Page 3.)

The resolution combined an earlier UBCM executive recommendation with a prior resolution from Nelson urging creation of some type of co-ordination of regional municipal services.

Adoption in principle of what Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell calls the "joint services board" concept undoubtedly will go down as the most important action of this year's convention.

Mr. Campbell told The Times he was very pleased with the resolution.

Several Negroes Held

McCOMB, Miss. (AP) — An undisclosed number of Negroes have been arrested in this racially-tense area on warrants charging them with "criminal syndicalism"—a new state law prohibiting unlawful acts to bring about a political or social change.

The FBI meanwhile was reported to be investigating two new bomb explosions.

A bomb was hurled at the home of a former Negro city police officer who was en route to Washington to talk to the U.S. Civil Rights Commission and the justice department.

JOHNSON BACKS SEARCH FOR NEW PANAMA CANAL

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Lyndon Johnson today endorsed legislation to pave the way for possible construction of a sea-level canal to connect the Atlantic and Pacific oceans.

In a statement, Johnson urged Congress to act promptly on a supplemental request of $5 million to initiate a study to determine a site for a new canal.

Johnson said the Panama Canal was "a great engineering achievement" which has served world commerce for 50 years. But he said "if we are to meet the challenges of the future, we must begin now to think in terms of the long-range needs" which the present canal cannot meet.

The president recognized that construction of a sea-level canal "presents formidable obstacles even after a suitable site is selected."

He pointed out that there are "enormous technical problems and complex and inter-related political, military and economic considerations that must be weighed."

He said the Panama Canal had been a major source of income for Panama's economic and social development and "key link in our security arrangements."

But he said a new waterway is necessary to meet the demands of the future.

China Scouting West For Chemical Plants

LONDON (AP)—China is reported buying or negotiating for $200,000,000 worth of chemical plants from Britain, Western Europe and Japan.

Informants said the Chinese already have ordered seven plants from West European countries and two from Japan, and about a dozen are under negotiation with British firms.

British businessmen are saying privately that the $200,000,000 involved seems to be within China's capacity to pay because of an exceptionally good harvest this year.

The British government has been cool, however, to overtures from Peking to underwrite long-term credits to help build China's chemical industry.

An authoritative source said the British government, which insures exporters against loss, does not yet see the Chinese as a good long-term credit risk.

The board of trade earlier this year allowed up to $280,000,000 of long-term credit to the Soviet Union for purchase of chemical plants. An equivalent sum is to be allowed smaller Communist countries of Eastern Europe for the same purpose.

FOLLOW RUSSIAN LEAD

The British government and British businessmen have the impression that the Chinese are following the lead of the Russians in putting increasing emphasis on production of plastics, fertilizers and artificial fibres.

The Chinese seem mainly interested in production units for petrochemicals, synthetic fibres and fertilizers.

TROOPS

The UN statement said the arms and ammunition had been handed over to the Greek-Cypriot government and that a "thorough investigation of the incident" has been ordered by the peace force commander, Gen. K. S. Thimayya of India.

Police gave this account:

A roadblock was set up on a winding coastal road after receipt of "certain information." The roadblock was manned by armed Greek - Cypriots who took up positions on the surrounding hillsides with guns trained on the approaches to the roadblock. The Swedes at first refused to allow the armed cars to be searched, claiming this would be a violation of the UN freedom of movement and demanded they be allowed to proceed. The Greek-Cypriot forces, however, radioed UN headquarters in Nicosia demanding action at the highest level. The UN force commander himself, Thimayya, went to the scene by helicopter. Thimayya authorized Greek-Cypriot police to carry out a search, which revealed the arms and ammunition.

5,000 Tons Block Road

SMITHERS (CP) — Highway department officials today surveyed damage caused by a slide Wednesday on Highway 16, 30 miles west of Smithers.

The slide tore out a 70-foot section of the highway in the Bulkley canyon, halting motor traffic between Prince Rupert and Prince George.

New Bus Fare Scheme Hinted By PUC Chief

The Public Utilities Commission could revise proposed transit fare hikes and still give B.C. Hydro the increased revenue it demands, chairman Dr. H. F. Angus said Wednesday.

He spoke at the last sitting of the commission here before adjournment to Vancouver Nov. 9. The three days of sittings here were expected to be the last in Victoria.

Dr. Angus said there is a "mathematic possibility" the PUC will propose some form of reapportionment of fare increases in order to give Hydro the additional revenues it requires.

He indicated this could lead to maintaining present student fares, and chances of this happening would be substantially increased if "some angel"—i.e., the municipalities—offers a subsidy.

Hydro officials said they saw little objection to a subsidy as long as Hydro gets the additional money it seeks.

A Parent-Teacher Federation brief to PUC said the proposed student fare increase would be harmful to school attendance.

John Stanton, education chairman of the 36,000-member provincial organization, told the commission that B.C. Hydro's application for increased fares in the Greater Vancouver and Victoria areas, if granted, "will prevent many young people from completing their education."

"Numerous families are living so close to the brink, economically speaking, that even an additional 25 or 30 cents a day for bus fare will actually prevent continued attendance at school," he said.

Mr. Stanton suggested the $174,000 which Hydro hopes to gain by increasing student fares should be contributed in the form of a subsidy by municipalities.

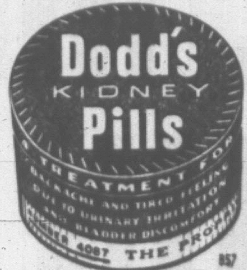

Lawyer R. R. Dodd, appearing for Hydro, objected to what he termed "a fundamental error" contained in the federation's brief which claimed student fares were to be raised to the same level as present adult fares.

At present students over 12 below university level are permitted to ride buses at the children's fare of five cents here and seven cents in Vancouver. Mr. Dodd said Hydro's application called for raising of all children's fares to 10 cents and establishment of a new "intermediate" student fare of 15 cents.

Mr. Dodd told the commission Hydro's case in support of its application is complete with exception of the results of a survey now in progress which will update earlier findings.

Mr. Dodd said it will probably take only one day to present the new information to the PUC when hearings resume.

North Wall Of Ancient City Found

AMMAN, Jordan (Reuters)—British and Canadian archaeologists have uncovered the north wall of the ancient city of Jerusalem, built 1,800 years before Christ outside the southern wall of the Roman city, it was announced here today.

Dr. Awini Dajani, director of the Jordan antiquities department, said excavation on the site by the British School of Archaeology in Jerusalem and the Royal Ontario Museum of Toronto, directed by Miss Kathleen Kenyon and Dr. A. D. Tushingham, has been completed for 1964 and will continue next summer.

Miss Kenyon, in a statement, said they had employed up to 450 laborers on the site, which is being increasingly invaded by modern buildings.

She said finds have thrown light on all periods of the city from the earliest settlement of the Jebusites, dating back nearly 3,800 years before Christ.

Religious Liberty Sparks Sharp Debate

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Vatican ecumenical council fathers from five countries assailed today a proposed declaration on religious liberty.

But two American prelates, joined by an Austrian cardinal and a German bishop, defended the declaration as a vital issue and urgently appealed to the council to approve it.

The dominant objections voiced in the attacks were against any phrasing in the declaration saying that man considered in error has the same right of conscience as a man possessing what is believed the truth. This reflected a traditional conservative view in Roman Catholicism that only Catholics have the truth and all others are in error.

Eighteen prelates spoke in St. Peter's Basilica on this second day of debate on what U.S. bishops have called the most vital public issue before the council. Fourteen of the speakers denounced the declaration.

STRONG CRITICISM

Strongest objections were voiced by conservative prelates from Italy, Spain, Ireland, Brazil and India.

Michael Cardinal Browne, Irish-born Dominican who has worked in the Vatican curia for nearly 30 years, sounded the keynote in the attack, terming a declaration in favor of "universal religious freedom" "not necessary for the peace and unity of peoples today."

Council press spokesmen reported on the closed door debate to reporters. Cardinal Browne was quoted as saying:

"Social right based on a conscience in error cannot be made equal with those based on a conscience in truth."

Cardinal Browne is a member of the doctrine-defending holy office, whose secretary, Alfredo Cardinal Ottaviani, Wednesday blasted the proposed declaration as a danger to the catholic faith.

DEFENDS DECLARATION

Bishop Ernest Primeau of Manchester, N.H., and Most Rev. Joseph Buckley of Wheeling, W.Va., superior-general of the Marist Fathers, took the floor to defend the declaration and urge its approval.

Bishop Primeau called the text "extremely satisfactory." He told the council "religious liberty should be regarded as a true and strict right, including immunity from any and all coercion."

Father Buckley was quoted as saying the declaration was needed "to complete the work of the council. If it is not approved, then the council simply collapses."

"Let us not disappoint the world," he said.
